PARIS AND VERSAILLES.

Desperation of the Commune—General Distrust—Fifty to Two Hundred Persons Killed by a Cartridge Explosion—Surprise of Federal Assaults at Neuilly.

LONDON, May 18.—The Times special dispatch from Paris says the Commune has resolved to form a Central Club of women, for the purpose of disarming runaways. The delegation of the Commune in the Second Arrondissement has decreed the closing in that portion of Paris of all houses of ill-fame. The Daily News special dispatch from Paris reports that there is great agitation among the people, and distrust of the Commune grows universal. Arrests are becoming general. It is supposed the Germans are about to send an ultimatum to the Commune. Heavy columns of troops are near Passy, where a battle is hourly expected. The Telegraph's special dispatch from Versailles says a body of 10,000 insurgents attempted on Tuesday to surprise the Government forces at Neuilly, but were repulsed and driven back to their own lines. It is reported the Versailles troops have carried the Maette Gate of Paris by storm. A dispatch from Paris says the number of persons killed by the explosion of the powder magazine in the Avenue du Trocadero is variously estimated at from fifty to two hundred. The stock of cartridges, which was immense, and a large amount of neighboring property, were destroyed. MM. CLEMENT and BRUNEL, members of the Commune, have been arrested. The Committee of Safety appeal to the National Guard to secure the triumph of the Commune, and in so doing describe the fearful results which must come from their inaction. Another attack was made on Wednesday on the Versaillists' position at Neuilly, but, as on the previous day, the assailants were repulsed. The Communist batteries on Montmartre are today bombarding the Versailles works at Chateau Bepon. The Commune has directed M. RIGAULT to make reprisals for all acts of cruelty perpetrated by the Versailles commanders.

VERSAILLES, May 18.—The cannonade of the approaches to Paris continues.

The Assailants Intrenched 200 Yards from the Auteuil Gate—The German Troops Taking Commanding Positions—The Cartridge Explosion Accidental—Why the Government Delays.

PARIS, May 18—Evening.—The Versaillists are throwing up intrenchments 200 yards from the Auteuil Gate, the breach in which is still impracticable. Fort Montrouge still continues feeble resistance. The bombardment is incessant, and the German troops are taking possession of many commanding positions.

LONDON, May 18.—The Prussians are cutting fascines between Rainey and Montfermeuil, in the department of Seine et Oise, and are expected to make an attack on the east side of Paris at an early day. The Communists' official journal accuses the Versaillists of causing the cartridge explosion in the Avenue du Trocadero, but the Verité demonstrates that the explosion was solely the result of accident, from the fact that no shell fell in the Champ de Mars at the time of its occurrence. The official journal of Versailles editorially dwells upon the difficulties in the way of establishing a military centre against insurgent Paris. The article asserts that the Government is striving to spare the innocent, and concludes by rebuking those who express impatience at the delay of the Government in capturing the city.

THE EXPLOSION IN PARIS.

The Victims Mainly Women and Children—Fearful Scenes—The Streets Thronged by a Horrified Multitude—Removal of the Dead.

PARIS, May 18.—The loss of life by the explosion of the cartridge factory in Avenue Rapp, near the Champs de Mars, was mainly of women and children. The concussion was felt throughout the city and caused great consternation, as it was uncertain what had occurred. Thousands of people rushed in the direction in which an immense column of white smoke was seen, and it seemed as if the whole population was in the streets. Amazement, terror and curiosity were depicted on the countenances of all. Thousands were met on the road leading from the Champs de Mars rushing away like mad with children and valuables, or helping to remove the wounded. At the head of Avenue Rapp a terrible scene was presented. Houses were burning, and there was an incessant rattle of exploding cartridges. A brilliant blaze shot up, there was heard the report of an explosion, which shook the factory to its very base, and it became a fearful mass of fire and smoke. Hundreds of thousands of cartridges, cracking and rattling one after another, mingled with the shrieks of the wounded, frightened the people terribly. Nearly all the women, children and men employed in the factory were either killed or fearfully wounded. Mutilated forms of humanity were on every side, groaning and writhing in agony. Across the great Esplanade des Invalides, and up and down the neighboring streets, ran the terror-stricken multitude, shrieking the names of children, mothers, wives and sisters. Aged women, wringing their hands in despair at the uncertainty of the situation of kindred, increased the terror which everywhere prevailed. For a distance of several hundred yards the writer assisted in placing stretchers for the heads and limbs and mutilated trunks of the killed. To one body clung the scorched fragments of a hoop-skirt, and on the remaining finger of one hand was the wedding ring. Higher up the street was a mass of human debris. One body was scarcely more than a mass of pulp blackened with powder. A force of 400 cavalry was ordered to drive back the crowd, as it was feared the other warehouses in the neighborhood would take fire, the firemen being unable to arrest the progress of the flames. All traffic on the bridges was stopped, and a panic of the troops was feared. The street cabs were called into requisition. The excitement was indescribable.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Proceedings in Parliament—Debate on the Budget.

LONDON, May 18.—In the House of Commons this evening, Mr. DISRAELI severely criticized the budget lately submitted by Hon. Mr. LOWE, Chancellor of the Exchequer, reviewing the successive stages through which it had passed, its introduction, reconsideration and subsequent revision. He objected especially to the provisions relating to the Income tax and to the Customs, saying that it was now proposed to meet the increased deficiency in the revenues, which would certainly be incurred, by the abolition of the purchase of army commissions by another equally undesirable measure. The pending treaty for the adjustment of the American questions would also require increased expenditure, the means for which should all come from direct taxation of the people.

Right Hon. ROBERT LOWE, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the Government shunned an addition to the income tax, because it was oppressing the lower and middle classes, and must now look elsewhere for revenue. Mr. CHAS. NEWDEGATE, member for North Warwickshire, commended the wise financial policy of America to the study of the Government. General debate followed. A motion exempting the exchange of Commissions from the operation of the Army Regulation bill which extinguishes the purchase system, was lost by 48 majority.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The France-German Treaty Ratified by the French Assembly—The Spanish and Turkish Loans.

VERSAILLES, May 18.—The committee appointed by the Assembly to consider the treaty of peace, have proposed to the Assembly to exchange the Territory of Metz for that stipulated to be ceded to Germany in the vicinity of Belfort. The Assembly has adopted entire the treaty signed at Frankfort, between France and Germany. Gen. CHANZY objected to the proposed territorial exchange, but was answered by President THIERS and Gen. DUCROT, who insisted upon the advantage of retaining and strengthening Belfort.

LONDON, May 18.—The new Spanish loan has been introduced in the London market. It is reported that the Turkish Government is about to make a first issue of consolidated bonds to the amount of $30,000,000.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

Insurgents Marching on Panama—A Hostile Demonstration—Foreigners Neutral—Fourteen Persons Killed by a Boiler Explosion—Miscellaneous.

ASPINWALL, May 18, via KINGSTON, Jamaica.—MANUEL DIAZ, commanding 600 insurgents, is marching on Panama, and is within nine miles of the city. The force is armed with Remington rifles and cannon. The Government troops are prepared to offer a stout resistance to the further advance of the rebels, and a battle is daily expected. The arrests of rebel sympathizers are numerous. The steamer Nostajo has not yet been recaptured from the insurgents, and her present movements are unknown. The wildest rumors are afloat, and the greatest excitement prevails. Foreigners continue neutral, but entertain diverse opinions of the merits of the revolution. The British war steamer Encore is expected at Panama, and the Himalaya at Aspinwall. The Commissioners appointed by the President have returned to Panama. They accomplished the release of chief prisoners in the hands of the rebels, and secured the appointment by the rebel chief of Commissioners to confer with the Government.....The boiler of a steamer plying on the Magdalena River, while going to Lima, exploded. Fourteen persons were killed. The Digue Company has ordered two new steamers to be constructed at Pittsburg.....The Guatemala revolution is without importance. President BURNAS and two Generals have been delivered to the new Government. They will be heavily fined and banished the country. A condition of giving them up was that they should not be shot.....Nicaragua has demanded from Salvador the release of Gen. MARTINEZ, on the ground that he is a citizen of Nicaragua.....The soldiers of ZATRUCH's army are returning, and will acknowledge allegiance to the new Government of Salvador.

THE FISHERY QUESTION.

Dissatisfaction in the Maritime Provinces With the Treaty of Washington—Action of the New-Brunswick Parliament—Indignation of the Fishermen.

ST. JOHNS, N. B., May 18.—Public feeling in New-Brunswick still runs high against the treaty. In the Legislative Assembly the Attorney-General moved a series of resolutions in opposition to the treaty, declaring:

That with no definition of the existing rights and duties of the citizens of the respective countries, it proposes to substitute unlimited dangerous concessions for valuable privileges. The resolutions maintain that no equivalent is offered for the free admission to the Canadian fisheries, and, as for reciprocity in fishery, that is a barren and delusive exchange; that the proposed money compensation is erroneous in principle, impracticable, and does not secure full commercial reciprocity, as was had under the old Reciprocity treaty, the only fair exchange. The hope is expressed that the Canadian Parliament will not ratify the treaty, but will still carry out its policy of protecting the fisheries.

The Attorney-General contended that the Canadians should stand up for their rights. He argued that the Commission could not fairly estimate the value of the fisheries of the two countries. The award would not be just, because in the section providing for the appointment of the Commission a clause had been inserted stating that the United States did not admit that they had received any advantages in excess of Canada. He indignantly repelled the idea that the provinces would be forced into annexation by the treaty, and said of the mother country, "Though she should slay me, yet will I trust in her." The Attorney-General was loudly applauded. He was followed by members of the Opposition, all speaking in support of the resolution and against the proposed treaty. The fishermen of the Bay of Fundy are alarmed and indignant, and are to hold a public meeting. Intelligence from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward's Island represents a similar feeling there.

KENTUCKY.

The Republican State Convention—Nomination of a Complete Ticket.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 17.—The Republican State Convention at Frankfort, today, nominated the following ticket: For Governor, Gen. JNO. M. HARLAN, of Jefferson; for Lieutenant-Governor, George M. Thomas, of Lewis; for Attorney-General, Wm. Brown, of Fayette; for Treasurer, Gen. Speed S. Fry, of Boyle; for Auditor, William Kripponstopel, of the Louisville Volksblatt; for Superintendent of Public Instruction, Rev. W. E. Mobely Todd; for Register of the Land Office, John K. McCleary, of Rock Castle. Resolutions were adopted in favor of a convention to amend the Constitution; favoring taxation; arraigning the Democracy for their political crimes; favoring complete amnesty; economy in the Government; a further reduction of tariff and internal revenue, and opposing direct taxes.

THE DEMOCRACY.

A New Departure of the Party Proclaimed by Mr. Vallandigham.

DAYTON, Ohio, May 18.—The Montgomery County Convention met today. Fifty-one persons were present, including some half-dozen curious Republicans. Delegates to the State Convention were appointed. Mr. VALLANDIGHAM, from the Committee on Resolutions, reported a new Democratic departure platform, intended for the groundwork of a national platform. It accepts the Republican situation and apologizes for Democratic delinquencies.

Mr. VALLANDIGHAM supplemented the platform with a written speech. The resolutions are in effect that the Democratic Party of 1871 is made up of men who during the late war, as also for a time since, entertained totally different opinions and supported totally opposite measures as to the questions and issues of those times; and it is reasonable to assume these same men still entertain, to a large extent, their several opinions, and would, if in like circumstances, support again substantially the same measures; and whereas, a rational toleration among the men received to unite in the present convention, and compromise does not require the surrender in any particular of former opinion, or any acknowledgment of error as to measures supported. Therefore they unite upon the living issues of the day, and invite all men who think as they do, to co-operate on the basis of perfect equality. That the party accepts the natural results of the war, including the three amendments declared adopted, as a settlement of the issues of the war—and acquiesce in the same as no longer before the country—and putting out of sight the dead past, namely, the right of secession, slavery, inequality before the law, and political equality, and now that reconstruction is complete, and representation within the Union is restored to all the States, they demand a strict construction of the rule as embodied in the Tenth Amendment.

The resolutions claim also that absolute equality of each and every State within the Union is a fundamental principle of the Federal Government, and that no department of that Government has the power to expel a State from the Union, or to deprive it, under any pretext whatever, of its equal rights; that the Democrats will cherish and uphold the American system of State and local self-Government for State and local purposes, and General Government for general purposes only, and are unalterably opposed to all attempts at centralization and consolidation of power in the hands of the General Government. That the Democratic Party is in favor of the following principles: The payment of the public debt as early as practicable, with moderate taxation; reform in the manner of collecting the revenue; reform in the civil service of the Government; a strictly revenue tariff; a taxation on the basis of the wealth instead of the population.

The platform claims that specie is the basis of all sound currency; that there is no necessary or irrepressible conflict between labor and capital; that without capital, or accumulated wealth, no country can flourish; that the party is opposed to the grant of any more public lands to corporations, and also to the annexation of San Domingo. That the act commonly called the "bayonet bill," recently passed Congress is intended to interfere with and destroy fairly and honestly free and popular elections in all the States subjecting them to the absolute control, through the military power whenever called forth, of the President; and that the "Kuklux Bill," intermeddling with the exclusively local concessions of every State touching freedom of speech and of the Press, the peaceable assemblage of the people, and subjecting every person to military arrest, trial and execution, was enacted for no other purpose than to complete the centralization of power in the General Government, to establish a military despotism, and perpetuate the present Administration, without regard to the will of the people.

In reporting the resolutions from the Committee, Mr. VALLANDIGHAM said: "These resolutions, Mr. President, sufficiently explain themselves. The principles and policies which they enumerate require honest censure of those who believe them insincere. Carping criticism we both expect and condemn. For more than two years the bitter and bloody passions of war have been gradually and surely breaking out. Continued and irreconcilable discussions upon new issues, necessity born of today, and even personal discord among the men of the Democratic Party who had stood together on questions of the past followed. The Democrats wisely remained silent, or confined itself to new issues. The Republican Party having fulfilled its original mission was rapidly falling into decay. It is not a new Party, but a return to the restoration of the Democratic Party once more to the platform of progress and reform, establishing the great fact that the party, like everything else in nature intended to endure, is capable of adapting itself to the perpetual growth and change which belong alike to the political and the physical world.

On motion of Mr. THOMPSON, the resolutions were adopted by acclamation. The Convention then adjourned.

Three Men Over the Niagara Falls.

CHIPPEWA, Canada, May 18.—Three men, supposed to be crossing from Manchester, N. Y., to Chippewa, were carried over the Falls this afternoon. It is surmised they had but one pair of oars, and the current being very swift, they drifted too low, and when the boat reached the first rapids it broke in two. The man that was rowing being and expert swimmer, swam within six feet of Street's Island. But the rapids drove him past. He then got discouraged, threw his hands in the air and sank. The two others were seen to rise once, but were soon carried away and nothing of them seen afterwards. Part of the boat has been recovered. The names of the unfortunate men have not been ascertained.

Sinking of a Mississippi Steam-Boat.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 18.—The steamer John Lumsden, which left here last evening for Cairo, struck the bank during a fog, when about three miles from Clarksville, and sunk to the boiler deck. There were on board a large number of passengers, 220 hogsheads of tobacco for New-Orleans, and six race-horses for Springfield, Ill. The steamer Barkeville left for the wreck this afternoon. No lives were lost, and the boat will be raised without difficulty. The tobacco and other freight will be saved in a damaged condition.

The Cuba Cable.

The following dispatches received in New-York yesterday explain themselves:

UNITED STATES STEAM-SHIP BIBB, AT SEA, LATITUDE 26° 10' 6," LONGITUDE 81° 42', May 17.

The laying of the International Ocean Telegraph Cable from Punta Rosa to Key West—Col. W. H. Hines, General Superintendent—is, so far, a perfect success.

AT SEA, FIVE MILES FROM KEY WEST, FLA., May 18.

I have just laid a heavy cable between Punta Rosa and Key West, in an air line, by American talent exclusively, both electrical and mechanical. This is the first long cable ever laid without foreign assistance, and notwithstanding bad weather. This cable was laid by a tow from the ship in which it had been coiled to be landed, a circumstance which makes the success of the work unprecedented.

For the International Ocean Telegraph Cable,
W. H. HEISS,
General Superintendent.

WASHINGTON.

The Treaty Investigation in the Senate—The Committee Authorized to Sit During Recess—Interpretation of the Correspondents—The Christian Convention—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Senate heard the answer of one of the obstinate witnesses, Mr. WHITE, a little after 12 o'clock today, and spent the remainder of the day, till near 7 P. M., in deciding what to do with him. The proceedings were not so lively as yesterday, and an hour or two before the final vote the galleries were almost deserted. The reporters' gallery, which was crowded during the first part of the proceedings being also left almost without occupants. Mr. WHITE gave as a reason for not telling where he got the treaty the privilege of the profession to keep the sources of information secret, and said he was ready to go before the Committee and testify that, so far as he knew, he did not obtain the copy of a Senator or an officer or employe of the Senate. The questions which he refused to answer before the Committee were put to him again by the Vice-President, and he declined to answer. Mr. CARPENTER then moved a resolution to the effect that Mr. WHITE should be confined in the Jail of the District till he would answer the questions, and that the Investigating Committee be continued through the recess. A few Senators labored persistently to defeat the resolution, or so modify it as to make its provisions milder. MORTON moved to lay the resolution on the table, but the motion was lost by the decisive vote of twenty-five to thirty-six. Mr. SUMNER moved to strike out the common-jail provision, and it was carried. Then came the principal struggle of the day on a motion of Mr. WILSON to amend by striking out the provision for continuing the Committee, and the confinement of the witnesses after the close of the session. On this motion the case was discussed in all its bearings. The character of the offense, the professional honor of the witness, the power of the Senate to punish for contempt and detain witnesses, the powers and practices of Courts and the Houses of the British Parliament, the propriety of holding secret sessions of the Senate. The culpability of Senators in giving secret information, and other like topics, were brought forward. The discussion was participated in by Messrs. Carpenter, Morton, Fenton, Sumner, Wilson, Chandler, Schurz, Hamlin, Logan, Garrett Davis, Thurman, Scott, Windom, and a few others. The most conspicuous defenders of the correspondents were Messrs. FENTON, MORTON, SUMNER and SCHURZ. Mr. WILSON's amendment was lost by twenty to thirty. The resolutions were passed without further amendment, except such as the senators in charge of the business accepted. The effect of them is that the correspondents, for after Mr. WHITE was disposed of, Mr. RAMSDELL was rapidly put through the same mill without debate, are placed in close confinement, under charge of the Sergeant-at-Arms, till they shall be ready to answer the questions put to them, and it is provided that the Committee shall come together at any time during the recess, when the witnesses are ready to give up the source of their information. A motion to make the Committee remain in Washington and hold daily sessions was among those lost. The developments since yesterday bear out the prediction of these dispatches, that the correspondents would no more answer the inquiries propounded under the limitation of Mr. SUMNER's amendment than those previously propounded. It seems pretty well established in the minds of Senators that the document did come from a Senator, either directly or indirectly, and this is what inspires the Senate with a determination to discover the real culprit. The affair would be divested of much of its present derogatory aspect, were it not for the fact that money was used in connection with the procuring of the document.

THE CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

The President will to-morrow issue an order granting leave of absence to all clerks who are members of the Young Men's Christian Association of this City, during the sessions of the International Convention, from Wednesday to Saturday of next week. He has also signified his intention of being present at the welcome meeting of the Convention, on Wednesday night next, at the First Congregational Church.

FATE OF THE TREATY.

The Senate, having shut up the correspondents, will now proceed to discuss the treaty. After exhausting itself as it has for the past few days, it is not believed that body will have much stomach for an exhaustive discussion of the provisions of the treaty. An adjournment by the close of next week is looked for, with the ratification of the treaty substantially without amendment.

MR. CHANDLER INDIGNANT.

During the debate today Mr. CHANDLER for a short time effervesced with indignation at the culprit, whom he charged was a member of the Senate, and reported Executive debates for the Press. He wanted the criminal found out and expelled from the body, and intimated that suspicion could only fall on two or three Senators, because there were not many men in the country who could report a four hours' debate from memory. If a four hours' debate were accurately reported from memory, Mr. CHANDLER would hardly be accused of it. But yet a quiet laugh was indulged at his expense, the story being that he gave a newspaper man information regarding an Executive Session no longer ago than Tuesday, who had dishonorably boasted of it. The story is not vouched for herewith, but is probable enough to create a laugh. Mr. WILSON owned that he had not been very judicious in speaking about Executive Sessions himself, and had no doubt facts had leaked out through him. The confession was considered very creditable, and his not promising to reform was encouraging to news-gatherers.

PROCRUSTEAN BED OF THE SCRIBBLERS.

The contumacious witnesses were placed together in the room of the Pacific Railroad Committee, and one bed was provided for both. There is not yet any prohibition, beyond the discretion of Mr. FRENCH, the Sergeant-at-Arms, against the friends of the prisoners visiting them. It is hardly possible that the Senate can be brought to refusing them any of the ordinary comforts of life, though not a few would be glad to put them on bread and water, and make their imprisonment solitary.

RECORDER OF THE LAND OFFICE.

Rev. Dr. BOYNTON, of this city, was, today, nominated by the President as Recorder in the General Land Office, in place of Judge GRANGER, removed. This is an excellent appointment, and was not sought by Dr. BOYNTON, though after his acceptance had been asked, and he had consented to take the office, an application by the officers of his Church was filed in the Department for the sake of form. The position will not interfere with the Doctor's labors with the Church of which he is pastor. The General Land Office, for a long time the worst served office in the Government, is thus being purified, and bids fair to become a model in integrity and efficiency.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

SOUTHERN CLAIMS.

The Southern Claims Commission today examined the cases of JOHN R. HORNBROKER and ELIAS GOOD, of Manassas, and JOHN J. WALL, formerly of Fairfax County, Virginia, the Trustees of the Manassas Presbyterian Church, and Senator FLANAGAN, of Texas. Mr. HORNBROKER claims $650 for flour supplied to the Government; Mr. GOOD $560 for horses and cattle and blankets; the Presbyterian Church $600 for their building used as a hospital and officers' quarters, and Senator FLANAGAN, $775 for forage and commissary stores taken by Gen. MERRITT's cavalry division in Texas in 1865. The next session will be on Monday next, for which are set the cases of JOS. BALDWIN and JOHN T. NEWTON, of Loudon County, Virginia; WM. R. BENCH, of Alexandria County, Virginia, and PATTERSON ALLAN, of Goochland County, Virginia, all for small sums and customary articles of farm products.

NOMINATIONS.

The President has sent to the Senate the following nominations:

Commander R. F. Sands, to be Rear-Admiral; Capt. Reed Werden, to be Commodore; Capt. Stephen D. Trenchard, to be Commodore; Commander Edward Beardslee, to be Captain; Alexander F. Maccubbin, to be Assistant Surgeon; Wm. H. McDonald, to be Assistant Surgeon; M. D. Isaacs, to be Assistant Surgeon; First Assistant Engineer, David Smith, to be Chief Engineer; Paymasters E. T. Dunn, J. R. Bitting-house, H. M. Hoskill, G. F. Cutter, J. H. Wainwright, J. J. Bradford, G. F. Pierce, J. H. Pickering, M. Bridge, J. R. Gulick, William A. Boggs, T. R. Lockey, and C. J. Emery, to be Pay Directors; Paymasters Charles W. Abbot, J. S. Cunningham, O. C. Jackson, Jas. H. Gillis, Jas. Harris, D. Ramsay, Jonathan Jones, J. M. Carpenter, H. J. Russell, George L. Davis, A. H. Gilman, E. C. Spaulding, C. P. Wallace, and George Spencer, to be Pay Inspectors. Surgeons—W. Woods, J. M. Foltz, J. C. Dalton, J. C. Fauntleroy, D. Harlan, J. D. Miller, Joseph Beale, George Mahaley, William Grier, J. M. Taylor, S. Jackson, James McClelland, F. M. Mecaumsile, T. M. Potter, A. A. Harrison, to be Medical Directors; Surgeons—Jas. M. Williams, M. Duvall, J. Wilson, Charles Eversfield, R. S. Mason, R. O. Moore, P. Lansdale, William Lambert, P. J. Howitz, Charles Martin, F. M. Gunnel, J. Ridgely, S. Shepard, W. H. Dupee, A. F. Onion and J. K. Dugan, to be Medical Inspectors.

Miscellaneous—Joseph M. Lucas, of Illinois, to be United States Consul at Singapore; Rev. Chas. R. Boynton, to be Recorder of the General Land Office; Wm. Harvey, of Vermont, to be Consul at St. John's, Canada; M. R. Patteridge, of Maryland, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Brazil; Wm. A. Pile, of Missouri, to be Minister Resident at Venezuela; William Vandiver, of Alabama, to be Governor of New-Mexico; Frank Sigel, to be Collector of Internal Revenue in the North New-York District.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

EXTRA SESSION.

SENATE...WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 18.

Mr. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, offered the following as an amendment to the rules:

That all treaties with foreign Powers be considered in public and open session, unless submitted in special confidence by the President, or ordered otherwise by a special vote of the Senate.

Mr. CONKLING, of New-York, submitted an amendment by adding:

And all other matter heretofore known as executive business.

The amendments were ordered to be printed.

Mr. HARLAN, of Iowa, moved that the Senate hereafter meet at 10 o'clock.

Mr. SUMNER suggested to come here at 12 o'clock and stay till 5 o'clock.

Mr. HARLAN's motion was agreed to by a vote 29 against 20. Mr. HARLAN moved to go into Executive Session in order that the majority may vote whether or not to proceed in the business before them. The motion was disagreed from.

The contumacious correspondents were then brought before the Bar of the Senate, and refused to answer questions relative to obtaining a copy of the treaty, on the ground that they would thereby violate promises their honor, as communications for the Press were given an implied confidence.

Mr. CARPENTER, of Wisconsin, offered a resolution that Mr. WHITE be retained in the custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms until he signifies his willingness to answer, and that meantime he be committed to the county jail, and that the Committee be authorized to sit during the recess.

Mr. MORTON, of Indiana, in order to test the sense of the Senate, moved to lay the resolution on the table. Disagreed to, 25 to 36.

Mr. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, moved to strike out the words "confined in the common jail." Carried, 34 to 27.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, moved to strike out the words "the Committee be authorized to sit during the recess."

Mr. CHANDLER, of Michigan, said he wanted the examination continued until the man in the Senate who reports secret debates of the Senate for New-York papers be discovered and punished.

Mr. SCHURZ, of Missouri, said he was glad to hear the voice of virtue from the Senator from Michigan, and thought the investigation should end as the witness had sworn that he did not get the treaty from a Senator or an officer of the Senate.

Messrs. LOGAN, of Illinois, WILSON, THURMAN, of Ohio, SCOTT, of Pennsylvania, and others, engaged in a discussion involving the privileges of Senators and the improper divulging of secret information.

The Senate then voted on Mr. WILSON's amendment to strike from the resolution the power of the Committee to sit during the recess, and decided the question in the negative—yeas 20, nays 30.

Mr. WINDOM, of Minnesota, offered an amendment, namely, that the Committee be required to continue their daily sessions until the said witnesses shall come before them and purge themselves of contempt. Rejected.

The resolution was amended so as to provide that if the Committee shall fail to assemble after ten days' notice that the witnesses are ready to answer the questions reported to the Senate, the witnesses shall be discharged.

On motion of Mr. CONKLING it was provided that it shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms, when he shall be informed of the readiness of the witnesses to answer, to notify each member of the Committee thereof.

Mr. SUMNER inquired what was to become of the correspondent of the New-York Herald for publishing the protocols.

Mr. CARPENTER said the Senate ought to bring the matter before the Committee.

Mr. SUMNER replied he brought it to the attention of the Senate.

Mr. TRUMBULL said the Herald was more guilty than the Tribune.

The resolutions offered by Mr. CARPENTER, as amended, were then agreed to by yeas 34 to nays 14.

Mr. RAMSDELL also declined to answer the questions.

On motion of Mr. CARPENTER a resolution was adopted similar to that in Mr. WHITE's case by a vote of yeas 24, nays 14.

The Senate, at 6:40, adjourned.

Messrs. WHITE and RAMSDELL were taken into custody by the Sergeant-at-Arms.

Arrival of the Cuba and Germania.

The steam-ships Cuba, from Liverpool May 6 and Queenstown May 7, and Germania, from Hamburg May 3, reached this port yesterday morning. The news thus received is fresher by two days than that gotten by the City of Paris. Capt. HERICH, of the Germania, is entitled to thanks for liberal additions to our German files.

THE GERMANIA.

This steamship is named after and takes the place of the unfortunate Germania which was lost off the banks of Newfoundland in 1869. She brings the largest number of steerage passengers ever brought on a German steamer to this port, viz., 1,015, which speaks largely of the influx of emigration from that quarter which may be shortly expected to arrive here. The average number of emigrants brought by the Bremen and Hamburg steamers is rarely in excess of 800. The Germania has been constructed by the eminent steam-ship contractors, CAIRD & CO., at Greenock, on the Clyde, and in form and construction closely resembles her sister ships of the same line, having the same straight bow. She is two masted, and is brig-rigged, round-sterned, clencher-built, has four decks but no galleries. The frame and plating are of iron. Her length from the forepart of sheep under the bowsprit is 329 feet; her depth in hold from tonnage deck to ceiling at midships is fifteen feet, while her total depth is thirty-one feet. Her gross tonnage is 2,766 tons, or after deducting allowance for engine-room, 1,885 tons. She has two engines of 550-horse power. Every modern convenience has been called into requisition for giving comfort not merely to the cabin but to the steerage passengers.

Fifteenth Assembly District Grant Club.

The Fifteenth Assembly District Grant Club met last evening in Constitution Hall, corner of Thirty-fourth-street and Eighth-avenue. The President, C. W. COWTON, occupied the chair. C. W. HOFFER, Secretary.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Fifteenth Assembly District Grant Club, heartily approve of the late measures taken by President GRANT and the Congress and Senate to enforce the laws of peace throughout the States lately in rebellion, and to institute the arts of peace and prosperity throughout the country.

Resolved, That we are heartily in favor of the nomination of Gen. GRANT for the Presidency in 1872, upon a platform which shall be as able and clearly defined—freedom of speech and action for American citizens throughout the entire Union, reduced expenditures, and a simple and wholesome revenue system.

Resolved, That we cordially invite all Republicans of this Assembly District, who are in favor of the re-election of Gen. GRANT, to unite with us, enroll themselves among the many hundreds who are already active members of this Club, and work to accomplish the labor we have undertaken.

Mr. E. HARRISON REED made a brief address, inforcing the resolutions, the policy of the Administration, and advocating the renomination of Gen. GRANT.

AUGUSTUS POWARS, a colored member, followed in the same strain, and said that his brethren, both North and South, would unite on such an issue, and thus place the one who had fought for their freedom in the Presidential chair.

Barometer corrected for temperature and elevation.

Synopsis and Prognostics.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18—7 P. M.—The barometer has risen somewhat on the Pacific coast, accompanied by a slight increase in the temperature. The weather remains unchanged at the Rocky Mountain stations. Light rains, followed by clearing weather, have been reported from Southern Illinois, and the rain prevailing at New-Orleans is now apparently confined to Northern Florida. Clear weather has generally prevailed on the Lakes and Atlantic coast. Although a light rain was reported last night on the Carolina coast, the area of highest barometer is now in Western Pennsylvania, and the pressure has fallen decidedly on the upper Lakes.

PROBABILITIES.

A slight disturbance is apparently developing in Alabama and Georgia, and will probably move eastward. A similar disturbance probably a severe thunder-storm—is also probable in Minnesota. Pleasant weather will probably continue on Friday on the Lakes, Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

The Middlesex County Woman's Suffrage Association held a convention in Charlestown, Mass., yesterday, and were addressed by William Lloyd Garrison, Julia Ward Howe, Lucy Stone, Mary F. Jackson, and other advocates of woman suffrage. A resolution was passed ridiculing the action of the Legislative Committee, to whom was referred the petition for a law to allow women to vote.

In the United States Circuit Court, at Richmond, Va., yesterday, JAMES M. SIMMS, colored member of the Georgia Legislature, obtained $1,800 damages against the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company for ejecting him from the white people's cabin of the steamer Keyport, between Washington and Richmond.

The stables connected with the Palmyra Hotel, at Palmyra, N. Y., owned by ROBERT HALE, were entirely destroyed by fire on Wednesday night. The fire was the work of an incendiary. The horses and carriages were saved. Loss, $2,000; insurance, $1,200.

GEORGE H. FARRINGTON, Assistant Postmaster at Augusta, Me., was drowned in the Kennebec River yesterday. He was sailing in a small boat, which capsized. Mr. FARRINGTON was in the rear, clung to the boat, but Mr. FARRINGTON undertook to swim ashore.

Gen. GORDON GRANGER, of Santa Fé, stated that the command at Fort Bascomb surprised and captured twenty-two hostile Indians, with 700 head of cattle and ponies and fifty-seven "barrows," near the Texas line.

Two men were thrown from a wagon at Chicopee, Mass., yesterday, by a frightened horse. One, named WM. H. GIBBS, fell on the railroad directly in front of an approaching train, and was killed.

In the United States Circuit Court at Richmond, Va., yesterday, HENRY J. SMITH, of New-York, obtained a verdict against the city for $3,000 damages for whisky destroyed the night before the evacuation of the city.

The General Synod of the Pennsylvania Presbyterian Church is in session at Philadelphia. Rev. A. THOMSON was elected moderator, Rev. Dr. MCLEOD stated clerk, and Rev. Mr. NEVIN WOODBIN

THURSDAY, MAY 18—P. M.

The Wall-street markets are all higher today, except in Money, which is lending to the Brokers at 4@5 ₱ cent. ₱ annum. The price of Gold advanced to 11½ ₱ cent and the Public Funds of 1867 to 114¼ ₱ cent, with other issues in proportion, and the long 6 ₱ cents, 117¼@117½; 10-40s 5 ₱ cents, 110½, and the New 5 ₱ cents, 111¼@111⅝ ₱ cent. The bids for Gold at the Treasury Office amounted to $5,910,000, of which $2,000,000 were accepted as follows:

Maxwell Swain & Co.		H. P. Hess & Co.
$100,000	112.01	$1,000,000	111.20½
50,000	111.03	2d Bids.
Marx & Co.		473,000	111.20
50,000	111.02½	2,000,000

The rates of Exchange on London are strong at 110⅝@110¾ ₱ cent., 60-days, and 110¾@111 ₱ cent. sight. The export demand for Gold Coin, thus far in the week, is about $1,500,000. The Customs demand for the four days, $1,770,000.

The Stock Exchange is active and speculation on the advance is nearly the whole Railroad list. The Erie movement ran up to 72¾ ₱ cent., and new theories of the source of the rise multiply as the price goes up, and the apparent "mystery" contributes in no inconsiderable measure to the anxiety of the outsiders to take "a turn" in this new wheel of fortune. The Pennsylvania Central people and the Michigan Central are credited, today, in connection with the Vanderbilt Roads, with making court to a great property which it is supposed GOULD and FISK will soon voluntarily abandon for a consideration, or be ousted by decree of the Federal Court when the main issue of the Heath and Raphael suit comes before Judge HUNTINGTON. Mr. SCOTT, of the Pennsylvania Road is in town, and Mr. EBBITTS COMBES, of the Michigan Central, has been made a Director of the Tweddy Ring Bank, the Tenth National; both regarded as "straws," though in opposite directions, touching the Erie affair. We discover today, however, no substantial reason to throw the Tweddy Ring out of the game. It was authoritatively announced at the Stock Exchange, this forenoon, that the 20,000 new shares, notified 30 days ago for registration at the Farmers' Loan on the 19th (to-morrow), would not be issued. The present Registration of $75,000,000 is now overdrawn by 20,000 shares, so that the HEATH and RAPHAEL or Coleman Receiver Stock, 20,000 shares, cannot all be registered unless a corresponding amount of other Stock is withdrawn by purchase, which will probably be done. The Lake Shore Stock advanced to 112 ₱ cent; New-Jersey Central to 111½ ₱ cent; Rock Island and Reading both to 115¼ ₱ cent, while the other Westerns and New-York Centrals were stiffer than yesterday. The Southern State Bonds continue firm and some of them active. The Pacific Bonds dragged somewhat through the day, but after 4 o'clock the Centrals, from 101½@101¾, suddenly rose to 102¼ ₱ cent. sales.

After the late Boards the excitement and buoyancy in the Railway market were on the increase, and there was every indication of higher figures to-morrow on three or four of the prominent Stocks, like Lake Shore, Reading, &c. About 6 o'clock the following quotations were made, as compared with Wednesday night. The Pacific Bonds were firmer, Central Sixes advancing sharply on the very latest dealings and closing at 102¼@102¾.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

NEW FIVE PER CENT. BONDS OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Treasury Department is now able to promise that the registered Certificates of Stock, and a good part of the Coupon Bonds, of the New Loan of the United States, bearing Five per cent. Interest, payable quarterly in Gold, will be ready for delivery early in the present month. The Subscriptions to the Loan now amount to $95,000,000, and it is expected that the Subscriptions and Sales will progress more rapidly when the Certificates and Bonds are ready for market abroad as well as at home. The whole sum of Five per Cents offered to the public generally, and to the holders of United States 6-20 Bonds, without qualification, is $200,000,000. When this amount, to which preference is thus given, is taken up, the remainder of the Five per Cents, $200,000,000, embraced in the New Loan of July 14, 1870, for refunding the Public Debt, will be offered in connection with $200,000,000 Four and one-half per Cents, and any part of $700,000,000 of Four per Cents, the one running fifteen years and the other thirty years.

The following is a copy of the New Five per Cent. Bond, under and pursuant to the New Loan Act of Congress:

FORM OF 5 PER CENT. BOND.

INTEREST | FUNDED LOAN OF 1881 | 5 PER CENT.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

ARE INDEBTED TO THE BEARER IN THE SUM OF .....DOLLARS.

THIS BOND is issued in accordance with the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to authorize the refunding of the National Debt," approved July 14, 1870, amended by an Act approved January 20, 1871, and is redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after the first day of May, A. D. 1881, in Coin of the standard value of the United States on said July 14, 1870, with interest on such Coin, from the day of the date hereof, at the rate of FIVE PER CENTUM per annum, payable quarterly, on the first day of February, May, August and November, in each year. The principal and interest are exempt from the payment of all Taxes or Duties of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form; by or under State, municipal, or local authority.

WASHINGTON, ...; 18....

Entered ..... Recorded .....

..... Register of the Treasury.

Registered bonds will be issued of the denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000, and coupon bonds of each denomination except the last two. The interest will be payable in the United States at the office of the Treasurer, any Assistant Treasurer, or designated depository of the Government, quarterly, on the first days of February, May, August and November, in each year.

The Interest on the Registered Stock of this Loan, it is determined by the Treasury Department, will be paid as conveniently to the holder as on the Coupon Stock, and personal attendance, or attendance by proxy at the Treasury, to draw and receipt for the Interest will be dispensed with, whenever the check of the United States Treasurer, mailed punctually to the address and order of such holder, on or before every quarter-day, is preferred to such attendance. This check, payable in Gold Coin at the Treasury in New-York, (or such other office as the Stock is registered at,) will be negotiable or collectable on the indorsement of the owner or owners of the Stock. In pursuance of this arrangement, the subscribers to, or purchasers of, the Stock in its registered form (which is a complete protection against theft or other losses incident to Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer) are advised to give their Post-office address in full, and to notify of any change in the address between quarter days.

The whole proceeds of the new loan will be applied to the payment or redemption and cancellation of the 5-20 years six ₱ cent. bonds, and, in addition to these proceeds, the 5-20s are now being reduced by purchase at the rate of $10,000,000 per month.

The entire effect, therefore, of the New Loan, in connection with the existing Sinking Fund process of the Treasury, is to reduce both Principal and Interest of the Public Debt of the United States. The Loan creates no additional supply of Government Stocks, while the application of the surplus revenues derived in Gold from Customs is constantly lessening, as it has been doing for two years past, the Funded Stocks bearing six ₱ cent. Gold Interest.

The 1st of May schedule of the Public Debt, which has just been published by the Secretary of the Treasury, shows a reduction in these Stocks since the April schedule of $12,315,700 and a further lessening of the yearly interest charge thereon of $739,943. This leaves the total yearly interest charge in Gold $111,082,094. In the same month the Treasury paid and canceled $2,470,000 of the Three per Cent. Currency debt, reducing the whole of this debt bearing interest to $51,026,000, and the yearly interest charge thereon to $1,527,470.

The proposed further reduction of the annual interest charge upon the Public Debt by refunding is as follows:

By exchange of $200,000,000 United States six per cents for new five per cents of 1881	$8,000,000
By exchange of $200,000,000 United States six per cents 1867 four and a half per cents of 1891	4,500,000
By exchange of $700,000,000 United States six per cents for four per cents of 1891	14,000,000
Total saving per annum by refunding	$26,500,000

The large and rapid accumulation in the last few years of private capital now retired from active business, and of the cash Savings and Life Insurance premiums deposited with or intrusted to the provident institutions of the country—all seeking the most undoubted security, pledged to be kept free of all taxes, under national or local authority, and content, provided this object be assured, with moderate rates of interest—will no doubt ultimately absorb so much of these New Stocks as may not be taken in voluntary conversion of United States 5-20s, or marketed abroad. C. C. NORVELL,

In charge of United States Loan Advertising.

TREASURY OFFICE, NEW-YORK, May 2, 1871.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, LOAN DIVISION, May 16, 1871.

It has been determined by the Department to pay the interest on the registered stock of the new Loans, (note July 14, 1870, and Jan. 20, 1871,) by check, to the order of the party in whose name the stock is registered, and the check will be transmitted by mail to the address of the holder, when furnished; otherwise, it will be sent to the care of the Assistant Treasurer or depository where the interest is to be paid.

It is requested, in order to enable the Department to transmit these checks by mail, that all parties subscribing to the new loan, or having securities sent to them, will furnish their correct post-office address, and advise the Department of any change of that address before interest days.

During the fifteen days immediately preceding the interest days, Feb. 1, May 1, August 1, and Nov. 1, the transfer books will be closed for the purpose of preparing the checks. If the certificate and assignment for transfer previous to the closing, the interest will be declared to the person to whom the transferred certificate was issued, and the assignee must look to that party for the accrued interest to which he may be entitled.

The new certificate issued upon a transfer of stock will bear interest from the first day of the quarter year in which such transfer is made, and will invariably be returned to the party who forwarded the assigned certificate by mail, unless otherwise directed.

Checks issued in payment of interest will bear the following indorsement: "This check is payable on presentation, properly indorsed, at the office of the Treasurer at Washington, the Assistant Treasurer at Boston, New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Charleston, New-Orleans, St. Louis, or San Francisco, or the Designated Depository at Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Saint or Pittsburg."

Should any checks be returned, to the Department as "uncalled for," they will be held by the Treasurer of the United States, subject to the order of the payee. GEO. S. BOUTWELL, Secretary.

FISK AND HATCH,
BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
No. 5 NASSAU-ST., NEW-YORK, May 18, 1871.

The SIX PER CENT. GOLD BONDS of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY are secured upon a property which, when the extension to the Ohio River, now in process of rapid construction, is completed and fully equipped, will represent a cost of nearly $30,000,000, and, an actual value in road, franchises, rights of way, &c., of not less than $60,000,000.

The total amount of the Loan is $15,000,000, of which one-half has already been sold.

The CENTRAL PACIFIC BONDS negotiated by us, amounting to $6,250,000, have a ready market every where, being favorably known and actively dealt in at all the principal Stock Exchanges of this country and Europe, and are readily salable at all times at quoted market price, which is now above par.

The Bonds of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY, we believe to be of equal value and security, and must in time take a like rank in market value and salable character.

Holders of Five-twenty Bonds desiring to fund them otherwise than in the new Five per Cent. Government Loan, may do so with entire safety, at a profit of about twenty per cent., and without reduction of interest, by an exchange for the Bonds of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY.

Price of the bonds, until further notice, 91, and accrued interest from May 1.

We also buy and sell Government Securities, and the bonds of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, and as agents of the United States Government will attend to the funding of 5-20s into the new United States Bonds.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The Versailles forces are intrenching themselves within 200 yards of the Asnieli Gate of Paris, which, though much battered, is not weak enough to be assaulted. Montrouge responds feebly to the fire of the Versailles. The bombardment is incessant. The Germans are said to be taking possession of many commanding positions, with the intent to attack the east side of Paris. The official journal of Versailles ascribes the delay of the Government to the desire to spare the innocent portion of the inhabitants. The Commune has resolved to form a central club of women, for the purpose of dissuading runaways. There is great agitation among the people, and distrust of the Commune grows universal. Arrests are becoming general. MM. CLEMENT and BRUNEL, of the Commune, have been arrested. A body of 10,000 insurgents attempted, on Tuesday, to surprise the Government forces at Neuilly, but were repulsed. Another attack was made on Wednesday on the same position, but with little result. Heavy columns of troops were near Passy yesterday for a battle. The number of persons killed by the explosion in the Avenue du Trocadero is estimated at from 50 to 200. The Assembly has adopted entire the Treaty of Frankfort. Gen. CHANZY objected during the debate to the territorial exchange, but M. THIERS and Gen. DUCROT insisted on the advantage of retaining and strengthening Belfort....In the British House of Commons, last night, Mr. DISRAELI spoke against the Budget at length....The new Spanish loan has been introduced in the London market....It is reported that the Turkish Government will make a fresh issue of bonds to the amount of $20,000,000.

GENERAL.

A force of 800 insurgents was marching on Panama at the latest dates, May 15, and a battle was imminent, as the Government troops intended to offer a stout resistance. The steamer Nostlie was still at large, and her movements were unknown. The Commissioners sent to confer with the rebels had effected the release of several prisoners held by them. A steamer on the Magdalena River exploded her boilers recently, killing fourteen persons.

The United States Senate spent the day yesterday in the examination of the cases of the contumacious witnesses who still refuse to answer Mr. CARPENTER's questions.

EDWARD H. RULLOFF was hanged yesterday, in the yard of the Binghamton Jail, for the murder of FREDERICK A. MISRICK, on the 16th of August. He died with firmness. His last night was somewhat restless and he slept but little. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning he was removed to a room on the second floor of the jail so that he might not see the final preparations. This room had a window opening upon the hill outside, on which hundreds of people were gathered at an early hour, and he frequently, during the morning, exhibited himself at this window and was seen by the multitude, but was in no way discouraged by the publicity. RULLOFF, in his last interview with his counsel, expressed a wish for the latter to take charge of his body to await the orders of his brother. The body was accordingly delivered to Mr. BECKER after it had been placed in the coffin provided by the Sheriff.

The Montgomery County, Ohio, Democratic Convention met yesterday in Dayton, and appointed delegates to the State Convention. Mr. VALLANDIGHAM reported from the Committee on Resolutions a series drafted by himself, which, it is assumed, are to form the basis of a "new departure" platform. They accept the Republican situation, and apologize for Democratic delinquencies.

The President has nominated Commodore B. F. SANDS to be Rear-Admiral; Capts. REED WORDEN and STEPHEN D. TRENCHARD to be Commodores, and Commander EDWARD BARRETT to be Captain. Also, JAMES B. PARKINSON, of Maryland, to be Minister to Brazil, and WM. A. PITE, of Missouri, to be Minister Resident at Venezuela, and Gen. FRANK SIGEL to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the Ninth New-York District.

A boat containing three young men went over the Niagara Horse Shoe Falls Yesterday afternoon. Their names and residences are unknown.

The steamer John Lenadier struck a bank in the Mississippi near Clarksville, Tenn., on Wednesday night, and sank to the boiler deck. No lives were lost.

The second quadrennial session of the General Conference of the Methodist Non-Episcopal Church has commenced at Pittsburg, Penn. Hon. F. H. PIERPONT, of West Virginia, was elected temporary Chairman, being the first layman chosen to that office. Seventy-five delegates were present, and thirty more are expected.

The revenue receipts yesterday were $[illegible], and the subscriptions to the new loan, $[illegible]. The customs receipts for the week ending May 6 are as follows: New-York, $2,544,750; Philadelphia, $242,742; Boston, $407,127; Baltimore, $[illegible]. Total, $[illegible].

The Republicans of Kentucky yesterday nominated Gen. JOHN M. HARLAN for Governor, GEORGE E. TEMPLE for Lieutenant-Governor, and a complete State ticket.

The Attorney-General of New-Brunswick, yesterday, moved a series of resolutions in the Assembly opposing the ratification of the Treaty of Washington, which, it is believed, will pass both Houses. The resolutions were supported by the opposition as well as the Government side of the Assembly. Strong feeling is said to exist in all the maritime provinces against the treaty.

The Purple Behind the Red.

If a single probability of the future can be foretold from the weary chaos and blood-stained madness that have settled on France, it is that out of this anarchy must spring a dictator. The populace may hurl down columns, and give new names to squares, but they do not thereby sanctify or lend permanence to principles—they merely create niches for the figure that is to come. Just as the son of St. Louis made way for the Corsican, so the latter may herald by his overthrow the fresh tyrant of the future. It may be, however, that the star of the Napoleonic dynasty has not yet set, and, if reports are to be credited, such is the conviction of its deposed representative. "In three months," NAPOLEON III. is reported to have lately said, "we shall be in Paris." The anticipation is startling, but, whether desirable or not, there is assuredly something to be said for its likelihood. The horrible and, to all appearance, purposeless butchery now going on in and about Paris, may have a closer affinity to the coup d'état than is supposed. "When a crime is committed," said a wise man, "and the perpetrator is unknown, we must seek out whom it benefits." That the Commune could possibly succeed in its ostensible objects has been from the first incredible. None know this better than the cunning men who have stimulated its resistance and excesses. We cannot positively declare that Imperial agents and Imperial gold have fomented and sustained the present wretched condition of things; but it is clear that the longer that condition lasts, the greater will be the number of Frenchmen who will welcome any Government that promises stability and order, and that the régime under which these elements at least were assured for eighteen years, is the most promising, if not the sole available one, through which they can apparently be regained. From this point of view, the Purple may indeed be behind the Red; and the Commune may be fighting the battle of the Empire.

To the friends of progress and of liberty this is but a sorry prospect. That the slaughter and pecuniary cost of the late war should be succeeded by such a restoration must, in their eyes, be a terrible and crowning calamity. Yet it is undeniable that Paris, in a logical sense, is her own destroyer, since she precisely confirms the arguments which set forth her unfitness for free institutions. It is absolutely impossible, the Bonapartists have again and again declared, for Paris to govern herself; behold how she sets to work when she has the opportunity. There is no longer an Emperor, no longer a PIETRI, no longer a HAUSSMANN; and the streets run with blood, foulness and desolation cover the once lovely city like a pall, there is no such thing as order, no such thing as justice. There are only childish screaming and gesticulation, mingled with plentiful murders, a fratricidal contest miserable alike to victor and vanquished, and the pulling down of monuments that attested the strength as well as the weakness of France, and which Frenchmen will be taxed, no doubt, in the sequel, to replace. Besides this, there is one conspicuous theory the fallacy of which is not less palpable than its folly. This is the theory that Paris can successfully cope with France. The Reds, that is to say, pin their hopes upon a topographical and numerical blunder, the effect of which is inevitably to depress the Commune and exalt the Empire. Outside of Paris are the friends of NAPOLEON III., not within it; unless, indeed, we reckon the chiefs of the Commune among the number. The longer this intestine broil continues, the greater, we may be sure, will be the number of those who will welcome any political movement that will stop it, and in stopping it bring order and peace. The longer too, that Paris in the name of democracy defies France, the more formidable will become the chances of the Empire. Three millions cannot long fight thirty-six, and the demonstrated necessity for keeping the turbulent populace well in check would give additional strength to his Government, should NAPOLEON III. reascend the throne.

As regards the Germans, their interest in the matter is tolerably obvious. They are like the creditors of a firm of merchants, who, instead of going to work to earn money to pay their debts, are exhausting their substance by litigation among themselves. The national debt of France is now so large as to suggest various critical possibilities hereafter. It exceeds six thousand millions of dollars in gold. Few sober calculators would depend on the steady liquidation of the war indemnity at the hands of the Red Republicans; and, although the increase of the national debt of France, during the eighteen years of the rule of NAPOLEON III., is estimated at a sum greater than the whole national debt of Great Britain, the German claims would probably fare better at the hands of the Empire than those of the Republic. It may be added that the German shiney so to speak, must depend in some measure on the probabilities of immunity from a attack. Prince BISMARCK might safely depend that NAPOLEON III., if restored, would never again attack Prussia; and such dependence could hardly be as strong, were France under any other conceivable authority. Yet it would be unfavorable to the interests of both NAPOLEON III. and Germany were that power to intervene actively in his behalf. If we suppose the German authorities to desire the Imperial restoration, their posture of tentative inactivity is far more likely to conduce to that end than would be one of energetic intervention. The latter might, it is true, be immediately successful, but it also might speedily be followed by an anti-Imperial revolution, and a repudiation of German claims. Better, we may suppose these shrewd tacticians to reflect, that the Reds should exhaust themselves, and learn their lesson now, than get it at an infinitely higher price hereafter.

These various speculations may, of course, be falsified by events. It may be that NAPOLEON III. will never again sit on the throne of his uncle. Yet there are considerations strongly indicative of an opposite probability; and many will find in these considerations reasons to temper their regret. We should all rather see free institutions established and flourishing in France than any form of despotism, however paternal; yet if Frenchmen are to keep on indefinitely cutting each other's throats, most of us might gradually become reconciled to whatever can terminate the effusion of blood, and bring protection to industry and safety to property. It may be added that to those who have studied the Parisian character, there are perceptible curious tokens of impending change which have had historic analogies before. When the column of the Place Vendome came down, the soldiers of the National Guard spat in the face of the statue of the Emperor, and beat the senseless body with their rifles. It sounds like paradox to infer from this any reaction of friendly feeling toward the Imperial dynasty; and so it would be in any other country than France, and in any other city than Paris.

Republican Opinion in Pennsylvania.

Several Republican newspapers in this State are in the habit of making virulent attacks on the Administration of President GRANT. Some of these attacks are manifestly prompted by the corrupt Democrats, who can use money in more ways than one. But notwithstanding all these attempts, the great mass of Republicans refuse to be led by those who seek to deliver the Nation into the hands of the Democratic party. The electoral college of Pennsylvania is second in importance only to New-York, and exerts equal influence on the formation of political opinions. Indeed, the influence of Pennsylvania on Republican opinion is perhaps even greater than that of New-York. The Republican State Convention which was held at Harrisburg on the 18th, declared unreservedly.

"That the Administration of President GRANT meets the full approval of the Republican Party of Pennsylvania. His financial policy, by which the national debt is steadily reduced; the reduction in expenditures of the Government; honest collection of the revenues; his fidelity to the principle of human rights, through which the liberty of all is to be secured in every part of the land; his loyalty to the people, in having no policy to enforce against their will, and the spotless integrity of his Administration, merit the continued confidence of the American people, and point to him as an honored leader of our party now, and a proper standard-bearer of the Republican Party in 1872."

The Republican Party of Pennsylvania does not think it too early to discuss the question of the next Presidency, and the above resolution is a significant reply to the fault-finders. The administration of Gen. GRANT is emphatically approved, and the President himself is named as the choice of the Republicans of Pennsylvania in 1872. The Convention had a more important duty to perform than the nomination of State officers. Its members felt that the result in Pennsylvania next Fall would have a very considerable influence on the canvass of 1872, and wisely resolved not to allow their opinions to remain doubtful. The Presidential succession is always a troubled question in the State caucuses which immediately precedes the national nominating Convention. The Republicans of Pennsylvania have not avoided the issue, but have chosen to express unreserved confidence in Gen. GRANT. This will cause another change in the programme of the Herald.

Previous to the Republican National Convention of 1864, the same factious opposition which is now being made to the Administration of President GRANT was directed against Mr. LINCOLN. Then, as now, it was confined to a comparatively limited section of the party. When the point came to be decided, the party felt that a change at that important crisis would greatly endanger, if not destroy, the objects it had at heart, and Mr. LINCOLN was re-elected. Since then, the rebellion has been conquered, and the Union restored, but the danger has not wholly passed away. That the Union was not destroyed, and that the country is now at peace, are results wholly due to the Republican Party. The restoration of the Union was jeopardized for the moment by the course taken by ANDREW JOHNSON. Gen. GRANT, Commander of the Army and acting Secretary of War, lent efficient aid to Congress in thwarting the plans of President JOHNSON. With the lessons of those few weeks deeply impressed on his mind, Gen. GRANT came to the Presidency declaring that he had no policy to enforce against the will of the people. His acts have proved that this declaration was earnestly made, and the people at large, although quiet and unexcited, cordially approve of his efforts in their behalf. The resolution of the Pennsylvania Convention speaks the sentiment of the whole party when it affirms that there is today no man more entitled to the confidence of the whole country than President GRANT. Those who find fault with his policy, which the Republicans of Pennsylvania say is that of the people, do not suggest a better one; and it will puzzle them to find a man who is, upon the whole, more deserving of support and encouragement than the present incumbent of the Presidential office.

South American Trade.

South American trade has not attracted from Congress and the mercantile community of the United States that attention which so important an interest demands. Previous to the Franco-Prussian war, this trade was almost entirely controlled by England and France. Since then, France has been too much occupied at home to give any attention to foreign commerce. England, prompt to seize every commercial advantage, and being already in the field, appropriated the share of France, and now has almost a monopoly of South American trade. It is not our intention to present a long array of figures to prove the proposition that the trade would be of benefit to this country. We are a manufacturing people. South America is a large consumer of manufactures and machinery, and produces many articles which we consume. For coffee, dye and cabinet woods, medicinal herbs and barks, crude indian-rubber, hides, tallow, and many other articles of South American production, we are compelled to pay money, for the balance of trade is against us. There is no reason for the existence of this state of affairs but our own neglect. Our relations with the different Governments of South America are, and always have been, friendly. Many of these Governments are modeled on our own, and the United States have always befriended them when encroached on by the Powers of Europe.

Our commercial marine is a wreck. Before the war, our ships competed successfully for cargoes with those of England, in every part of the world. How to restore this trade is a question of vital importance. While we were in the midst of war, which engrossed every energy of the country, an important change was made in the material of construction, and the means of propelling ships. Iron was substituted for wood, and steam for sails. When peace allowed attention to be again turned to commerce, the United States were without ships, and the place which we formerly held was occupied. We were slow to recognize the fact that the day of wooden and sailing ships was passed. It seemed impossible that the clipper-ship could be superseded. But, after two or three years of hesitation, we were compelled to acknowledge the fact that the age of iron and steam had come. But, even after this acknowledgment, we were unable to commence using the new material for the construction of ships. The reason assigned for this is that onerous duties make the building of iron ships in this country so expensive, that competition with England is impossible. We have frequently pointed out the good grounds which exist for these complaints, and it is quite time that Congress gave the subject proper consideration. The fact is undisputed that the material of the commercial marine has changed, and that this change is one obstruction to winning back our lost advantages. Until our ship-builders are enabled to compete with foreign builders, there is little hope of a change for the better.

If, however, we have lost our trade with one part of the world, we should try and compensate the loss by increasing our trade with other parts. South America is at our own doors, and our relations with its several Governments are friendly. The trade offers many inducements. We are now large purchasers of many South American products from middle men, when we should buy in the home market. This market is to a considerable extent occupied, but it is not impossible, with proper efforts, to create a demand for our surplus manufactures and machinery. This trade offers an opportunity for extending our commerce, and of building up our commercial marine. The effort will have to be well sustained, and we must not give up the trial with the first defeat.

A Chinese Fungle.

The resolutions and figures published by the four jugglers who constitute the "Board of Apportionment," as the result of their action in the matter of reducing the expenses of the City Government, furnish an interesting study for persons who delight in solving riddles. We defy any man who is not an expert in that kind of business to get an intelligible idea, from the report as published, of what the Board has done or proposes to do. There is an evident design to give an impression to the public that the estimates for the different departments have been cut down about one-half by the Board of Apportionment, and that there is to be a consequent reduction of fifty per cent. in the expenses of the City Government; but when the reader comes to look for the items of this boasted retrenchment, and to try and find out what the actual expenses of any one department are to be, he is immediately lost in a fog as dense as that which pervades the office of Controller CONNOLLY. Take the following for example:

Resolved, That a reduction of fifty per cent. be made on all appropriations except salaries and such appropriations as cannot be reduced by reason of existing contracts or provisions of law, and that, in accordance with such reduction, the following amounts be appropriated to the several departments of the City and County Governments for the purposes stated.

Then follows a list of the various departments of the City Government, with the "estimates" of each and the amounts "appropriated" by the Board. The fact that the "estimates" are reduced just one-half in all the departments alike, shows that no discrimination was used by the Board, and that its action was not grounded on any just or intelligent basis. We accordingly find that some of the departments which sent in reasonable estimates will be utterly unable to go on under the fifty per cent. reduction. The Health Department, for instance, whose estimate was only $162,000, (TWEED's Department being $2,562,000,) is cut down to $81,500, —which, according to a statement made at a meeting of the Health Board on Wednesday, is entirely inadequate to defray the necessary expenses of the Board, even if there should be no unusual sickness or epidemic during the coming season. The estimates for the Board of Education are also cut down from $[illegible] to $[illegible]. These "estimates," however, were only for building purposes, and the reduction would seem to be reasonable in view of the published statement of the Board, that the school accommodations were already ample. But we find on perusing the proceedings of the Board of Education at a meeting held Wednesday evening the following:

A copy of the act passed 26th April, 1871, was read by the Clerk, authorizing the Controller to issue Public School Building Fund stock to the amount of $300,000, bearing seven per cent. interest, for the use of the Board in erecting public school-houses in the City of New-York; also, authorizing the Controller to issue stock to the amount of $200,000, bearing seven per cent. interest, for the completion of the Normal College. They were referred to the Committee on Finance.

It appears, then, that in addition to the building fund of $549,750, appropriated by the Board of Apportionment out of the taxes of the current year, the Department of Instruction is authorized by special acts to run the City in debt $800,000 more. It will probably turn out, on investigation, that many other departments of the City Government are also provided for in a similar way; so that the pretense of "retrenchment" on the part of TWEED, SWEENY, CONNOLLY and HALL is only a sham. The sums appropriated by them to the various departments afford no clue whatever to the amounts actually to be expended. We published some days ago a table of the amounts authorized by the recent Legislature to be raised by the issue of City bonds during the ensuing year, in addition to the $35,000,000 to be raised by direct tax. Since then we have heard of several additional items, including this appropriation for the Board of Education, which were not included in the table; and an examination of the laws on file in the Secretary of State's office would doubtless reveal many more items that were never heard of until the Legislature adjourned. So far as has yet been ascertained, the amount to be added to the permanent debt of the City by the issue of bonds this year is upward of seventeen millions of dollars:

For the Viaduct Railway	$5,000,000
For park improvements	2,000,000
For dock improvements	2,000,000
For water-pipes, mains, &c	1,500,000
For Tweed's pure and wholesome water job	1,000,000
For completing the Tweed monument, (New Court-house)	750,000
For fire-alarm telegraph	450,000
For parade-ground, Fifty-ninth-street	350,000
For Court-house, Ninth Judicial District	200,000
For Court-house, Third Judicial District	200,000
For Sheriff O'Brien's claims	250,000
For repairing sewers	100,000
For care of persons having contagious diseases	100,000
For new bell-tower, Third Judicial District	50,000
For building fund, Board of Education	83,000
Total	$17,000,000

The above sums, added to the twenty-five millions to be raised and spent by the Board of Apportionment under the "Two per cent." tax bill, make the total cost of running the City Government for the present year forty-two millions and thirty thousand dollars. In the words of the World:

"Comment upon these reforms is hardly necessary. The figures speak for themselves. It should, however, be remembered that this is one of the results of recommitting municipal affairs to the charge of the municipal government."

Palace Street-Cars.

There is no doubt that all classes of our population furnish a respectable quota of individuals who are anxious to find, at whatever cost, some means of City travel through which they may be guaranteed exemption from the numerous drawbacks of our present street-cars. Considering the urgency of the needed reform, we are willing to waive the legal right of the public to demand essential safeguards, without the imposition of extra rates of charge, in return for the remunerative monopolies the companies have received in their charters. We shall be content to suffer a delay in the just fulfillment of all the duties these corporations owe to the public, if they will but use reasonable diligence to perform them for pay. With this reservation, we commend the experiment of drawing-room street-cars. But it is nevertheless our duty to point out the very glaring faults and excesses with which the public is confronted at the very beginning of this enterprise, and which, if successful on the Third-avenue line, will of course be imitated on the others.

First, the overcharge is excessive and exorbitant. The present rate is five cents: these cars propose to exact fifteen. Now, while there is nothing in the temper or habits of our people to prevent their paying extra for a reserved seat, and civil treatment, it is simply preposterous to try their patience by this sort of extortion. Double pay would be exacting enough in all conscience; to ask treble is simply miserly exorbitance on the part of the Company. To base the demand on any alleged additional expense is, of course, absurd. Neither the fine upholstery, nor the absence of overcrowding, can justify it. Besides, these elegant hangings, and these artistically woven bouquets, will tarnish and wilt in the dust and heat of Summer, and in the equally destructive slop and slush of Winter. If it be urged that the price is intended to insure exclusiveness, then we answer that while a fare of ten cents could exclude the objectionable majority, a fare of fifteen would not exclude perhaps the very worst fraction of that same class, viz., the reckless bullies and the plotting thief. But further, such a theory of exclusion is wrong and mischievous. If the public must pay additional fares let it be for comfort and protection, and not to foster a sentimental fastidiousness. Class distinctions are unhappily growing fast enough without the aid of such artificial stimulants. Nor will this proposed tariff bear comparison with similar social imposts. You can buy your reserved seat, your advance ticket, your secured berth, your exclusive state-room, at the theatre, on the railroad-car, in the steam-boat, and elsewhere; but in no one of these cases does the management dream of superadding a cost of two hundred per cent. to the average rates.

The final excuse which may perhaps be urged for this excess, is as fallacious as the others. The Company may, perhaps, say they intend to run the palace-car over a longer route. If this be the intention, then the management make the fatal blunder of falling far short of the necessities and demands of the hour. Even admitting that in such a case the distance might justify the charge, there remains the inevitable consequence that the palace-cars must be too few and infrequent, and that the Company is providing for drops while provoking a shower. If they choose to run a semi-occasional car into the country, let them do so. But at the same time let us have better cars, at reasonable fares, and plenty of them, too, for the daily tide of humanity that ebbs and flows from the City Hall to Central Park.

MINOR TOPICS.

The hints of a threatened recomposition of Paris by the Prussians foreshadow the most dismal calamity to which France has yet been subjected. Some sanguine people thought that in the collapse of France before the military power of Germany was much less complete than that of Prussia before the armies of the First Empire, so its recomposition would be much more rapid. But Prussia, though shorn of population and territory after Jena, remained still a nation, and put herself, with a steadfast singleness of purpose, to repair the ravages of foreign conquest. France, on the contrary, is hopelessly divided against herself, and is merely a collection of discordant and irreconcilable factions. Politically, she has sunk to the level of Poland, and had Spain and Belgium been relatively as powerful as Russia and Austria, we should probably have seen another triple partition. As it is, a recomposition of Paris by the German troops could only inaugurate a Prussian protectorate, which would save France from herself, only to complete her self-inflicted degradation.

Of EULLOFF, as of sundry other great criminals, it may fitly be said that relating to the world became him so much as leaving it. The man acted to the last, but he acted with a nerve and determination which show how nearly the great felon escaped becoming a great man. A more ghastly evidence of the iron will that resided in the frame of RULLOFF could hardly have been given, than in the deliberate raising of the right hand and thrusting it into the pocket of his pantaloons while in the first sharp agony of strangulation. The philologist was doubtless convenant with the episode of the old English martyr, who, amid the flames, elevated both hands above his head in token of a blissful internal peace. RULLOFF acted out his martyrdom in the cause of science while on the very brink of an existence whose realities he had defied. An intensity of purpose so diabolical, was a patent disproof of the cant about his lunacy, and a defense of the righteous doom that sent so dangerous a foe of society beyond its pale.

Judge BEDFORD sent "Doctor" LOCKUE EVANS to the Penitentiary for three years and a half, accompanied by a stinging rebuke which was calculated to pierce even the hardened sensibility of so abandoned a criminal. In warning the professional miscreants of whom EVANS is a sample, that a similar penalty awaited them the moment they were convicted in that Court, the Judge might fitly have reminded the Felons that a very slight increase of vigilance would enable them to make considerable gaps in the ranks of that abominable fraternity. The case of ANN O'NEIL can be matched any week in the City. Every grade of social position has its corresponding professors of the art of murder and its perpetual roll of consenting victims. "The offense is rank and smells to heaven," and it will tax the combined energies of the Bench, the Pulpit and the Press to make any sensible impression upon it.

A movement is in progress in the English metropolis for the establishment of temporary small-pox hospitals, for people above the rank of paupers, which might be profitably imitated here. As is well known, the accommodation on Blackwell's Island is stretched to its utmost capacity. The Commissioners of Charities and Correction have shown a marked unwillingness to spend a cent more than they were absolutely compelled to do, for the proper housing and treatment of small-pox patients. With us, a proportion of these, still larger than in England, are able to pay for hospital accommodation. There is no obvious reason why special quarters should not be provided for such, to be maintained at the charge of the patients. Increased charges of recovery could thus be afforded to the class who have a legitimate claim upon the public bounty, as well as to those who are able and willing to pay for relief from overcrowding and defective attendance.

The Judges of the General Term of the Fifth Judicial District, have concurred in the decision rendered by one of their number, in the special term, declaring against the legality of the election of the FIRE Board, and in favor of that of the RAILWAY Board of Directors of the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad Company. The LEHMAN Receivership is accordingly abolished, the duly-elected Directors are authorized to take immediate possession of the road, and to recover from the FIRE party the costs of the action. It need hardly be said that the issue of this long-contested suit will be a fresh argument to the swindlers of Erie in favor of the passage of the Amended Code bill. Had the First Judicial District been entrusted with the case, and appeal foreclosed at that, how different might have been the result.

Reflective Frenchmen, in both hemispheres, recognize, with melancholy unanimity, the abdication of their country from a place among the nations. Says JOHN LEMOINNE, of of the Débats: "The result of the civil war will be to destroy the idea of country in the hearts where it had found a last asylum. * * Our fatherland no longer exists; France has suffered shipwreck. She is placed between the strangers who occupy her territory and the strangers who sit at the Hotel de Ville; between the guns on the right bank of the Seine, served by the Prussians, and those of the forts on the left bank, served by Poles, Irishmen, Sclaves, and all the Bohemianism of Europe." In the same strain writes the Courrier des États Unis with reference to the destruction of the Column Vendôme: "The true significance of this barbarous act is accurately expressed by a single word; the Place Vendôme will be called henceforth the Place Internationale. It was French, and is so no more; just as Paris is no longer French, and as France has ceased to be France. Frenchmen have a country no longer."

Canada was in hopes of securing under the Alabama claims treaty, the same commercial privileges enjoyed under the Reciprocity treaty. This hope has been disappointed, and a portion of the people, especially those of the maritime provinces, claim that the rights of the Dominion have been sacrificed. The [illegible] to the treaty is very decided, and meetings of the fishermen have been called to protest against ratification. The fishermen of Canada have at present an almost exclusive right to the best sea fisheries, but their market is limited. Canada does not consume the whole "catch," and the English demand is small. The treaty opens to them the market of the United States and with equal enterprise they will be able to compete with the fishermen of New-England. Reciprocal fishing rights are granted by the Dominion Government, in return for the maintenance of a large and expensive police for protecting the fisheries, and a cause of perpetual dispute is removed. The expansion of this important industry is limited in Canada by the demands of the home market, and is in consequence closed against large numbers who would engage in it if the competition promoted remunerative wages. The opposition is promoted by a very narrow view of this provision of the treaty, as well as of the real relations of Canada.

Judge COVEN, in his charge to the Grand Jury of Mont County, Kentucky, made an important ruling with regard to the admissibility of negro testimony. The Constitution of that State bars negroes in little fear of punishment for crimes committed by them on account, for the reason that the only witnesses were their complicates, or the outraged colored men and their families. Judge COVEN holds that the statutes of the State of Kentucky, which confine negro testimony in all cases in which whites are parties, is repugnant to the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and therefore void. The Grand Jury were instructed to receive negro testimony in all cases, and, if the evidence was sufficient to find an indictment, without regard to the race or color of the witnesses. The Judge said that when he assumed his office, he swore, as a part of his judicial oath, to support the Constitution of the United States, and, feeling that such is binding force, he deemed it his duty to instruct the jury that all provisions of State Constitution, or laws which abridged the rights guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, were void. The charge is very able and closely reasoned. Were all the Judges in the Southern States as learned, impartial, and considerate as Judge COVEN, the problem of reconstruction would soon be solved, and equal rights before the law enjoyed by citizens, whether white or black.

MR. OLE BULL'S CONCERT.

The limited space at our command precludes gratification of so longthened a notice of Mr. OLE BULL's concert, given at the Academy of Music last evening, so the after does really. We must therefore be content to say that Mr. BULL played in his most telling style, and dealt, in so doing, a liberal measure of those singular and ever-appreciated facts with which, as a worthy follower of Paganini, his method abounds. Miss Jessie Rose assisted Mr. BULL, and sang "Ah! Caro Nome," "O Luce" and VERDAGO's waltz, three performances which have already received attention here. Further aid was supplied by M. CARRABRES, an artist unknown to us historically, but whose talent is not likely to be concealed in the future. M. CARRABRES is an obscure of the genuine French school—as clearly evidenced by his phrasing—and his playing is altogether unique for fullness of tone and fearless, decisive and variety. He will be a most valued acquisition to the concert-room, and his success last night, we are sure, only foreshadowed many equally agreeable tributes to his merit. The accompanying soloist was Mr. EDWARD HOFFMAN, who rendered a fantasia on Mr. OLE BULL's new piece. This instrument can be best defined, in brief, as one in which much of the cant and wrought iron used about the sounding-board of the familiar elevanin is dispensed, and in which the board is of thick pine wood, formed of many pieces so as to secure firmness of grain, and strengthened by wooden ribs below. It is claimed that Mr. BULL's piano, like his own violin, will be improved by years. On this point, of course, posterity will be called upon, in its judgment. We are constrained to admit that the accompaniment to the Academy last night could hardly commend the invention for the homogeneity, richness or brilliancy of its utterance. Accompaniments to the orchestral work, as well as several concerted instrumental compositions, were done full justice to by an orchestra under the leadership of Mr. CARL BERGMANN.

ITALIAN OPERA.

While noting the intended performance of "The Sicilian Vespers" at the Academy, that evening, we are glad to repeat the information just supplied us as to a prolongation of Mr. ALBONI' season. The proposed manifestations in Philadelphia are postponed, and the company whose labors have been so widely appreciated, will remain here throughout next week. Monday they will sing "Crispino e la Comare;" Wednesday, "Lucia;" Friday, "Don Giovanni," and Saturday, as a matinée affair, "Faust." We congratulate the lovers of music, and hope that Philadelphia's respective pleasures are deferred and not destroyed.

CONCERT MADAME MORENI.

A concert has been tendered by prominent citizens of Brooklyn to the well-known cantatrice, Mme. MORENI, on the occasion of her return from Europe, after a six years' absence. The concert will be given at the Brooklyn Academy on Wednesday evening, May 24. Besides Mme. MORENI, there will appear on this occasion Mrs. GULLIEN, the soprano, Mr. M. HILLARD, tenor, Mr. M. J. LORRAIN, basso, and a fine chorus from the Philharmonic Society. A new feature here will be added in the introduction of a pipe organ, at which Mr. G. W. WARREN will preside. Mme. MORENI has, we are assured, many warm friends in Brooklyn, and as we doubt not the concert will be one of much artistic merit, we anticipate its substantial success.

The Ruler of New-York.

I have known TWEED for very many years. He is a man without shame, and very nearly without fear. A newspaper attack will make DICK CONNOLLY think that a vigilance committee is going to hang him straightway, and he will cringe and writhe in pitiable terror, for he is really nothing but a "Punch," like DICKENS' Pecksniff, and when he dies, even if he dies in his bed, he will go through the same contortions. SWEENY feels a savage personal attack; he is a man of education and worldly wisdom, who has lived long enough to feel that the good opinion of the world is the highest felicity; but, unwilling to give up his hold power, he can only sit and mope and have a mental spell of sickness every time he is taunted with the one reproach of his life. TWEED, as he "defies all the world," as they call him, is perfectly callous; nothing impresses him; he has his of good nature, spells of licentiousness, a good deal of gluttony, and most of the lower tastes well kept in check; but, after all, he is a powerful business man, always hard work, never wearied out, never thoughtful, sleeping from morn till midnight, doing a great part of his work himself, a fair judge of agents, a big brutal nature, equal to the most brutal situations and animated with the same spirit which drives a mill or runs STEWART's dry-goods house—confidence, economy, energy, enterprise. He is a man of big build, brown complexion, square head, square shoulders, big limbs and feet, gray eyes, and a quick, prompt manner, without a particle of suavity or sentimentality in him. If you were to go over and see him now, and say: "I have come here to write a sketch of you exactly as you are, and I want the points," TWEED would reply: "I would give them my soul, to you, if it could be done in a minute, but there is a thousand things just now on my hands. I am on the make; you put that down, sure. I keep my eyes wide open and never come close enough to stick my nose down as far as it will go, and pull my hand out as full as I can. Stick to my friends, that's me! If that will do any good, you go and print it." The audacity of the man takes well with the lower classes, whom he occasionally descends

The Sentence of the Law Executed Upon the Murderer.

Final Scenes in the Life of the Hardened Criminal.

Details of His Last Hours—The Felon Firm to the Last—Scenes at the Scaffold—Startling Incidents.

From Our Special Correspondent.

BINGHAMTON, Thursday, May 18, 1871.

This elegant, thriving city, filled with a hospitable, prosperous, and Christian people, at 11:03 o'clock this morning concluded the nine months' struggle, with a man who has been called the modern Eugene Aram, but who in better distinct at the mention of total depravity. There is a general satisfaction in the minds of all the inhabitants of this city that at last, after a venture of thirty years upon the turf of the back, EDWARD H. BULLOFF no longer grazes upon mankind.

The last twelve hours of the life of this monster was symmetrical with all its preceding years of infamy. The story of his last days has been fully and intuitively before said: suffice down to this evening, when the clock chimed ten only 12 hours distant, and the sentence of vast protests was left alone with his laughter and his philological hobby. He turned to his distractions, but THOMAS JOHNSON, one of his keepers, knew that his attention to them was a mere pretense, as he observed that BULLOFF had a book wrong side up, which he had opened to be carefully examining for some time. Upon making this discovery he was constrained to break in upon the meditations of the learned cutlery by asking him if his business in this world had all been closed. He answered in the affirmative, and thenceforward made but few attempts to convince his watchers that he was engaged in these studies of language by which he so persistently sought to delude the world. He turned with the facility of his unbalanced mind from philology to chemistry, and endeavored to be. [illegible] the night was the anodyne. [illegible] this man of magical mind sought to push the impending horror from him by scale devices, and occupied himself by the old puzzle of arranging figures so that added they would make fifteen either way. He made several failures at this, but finally succeeded with this example:

With these trifles the moments were wasted.

BULLOFF returned to the occupation which had before engrossed him. He spoke constantly to his keepers, and said once in answer to a question of Mr. JOHNSON in relation to the alleged autobiography, that the history of his life was all he should leave as a record of himself. He told the story of his last crime precisely as he related it to the Supreme Court at Elmira when he was resentenced, and with terrible emphasis again declared that JARVIS, not himself, fired the shot which killed MERRIN.

The clock in the parlor of Sheriff MARTIN striking 6 in the morning, the condemned, who was at the moment walking nervously up and down the corridor, which was used as a cell for his benefit, suddenly stopped and listened intently. Evidently he had not been able to count the strokes, for he turned to his keepers and asked the hour. Being told that it was 6 o'clock, he said, with more of true feeling in his tone than had been before noticed, "My time is getting short," and turned to his dictionaries again, but his preoccupation with them was more evidently a show than before. While he was thus engaged, Mr. SHILSON, one of the watchers, picked up a religious work called the Cross in the Cell, sent to the prisoner a few days before by some unknown person, and desiring a memento of his visitor, asked the prisoner to write his name in the book. BULLOFF looked at it just enough to see what it was and then said: "I don't buy, or read, or believe much of—d stuff, and don't want my name in it." He resumed his walk and tossed the letter for his contemptuous fling at the faith of his fellow-men.

AT 7 o'clock in the morning he was removed from the cell, where he had lived so many months, to a room on the second floor, where he would be out of the way of the last preparations for the execution which would soon commence. He easily divined the meaning of the change but made no remark upon it and stepped lightly and firmly from the corridor which he knew he would never enter again except to pass through it on his way to his doom; and he seemed really interested in his new quarters. The room had a large window looking out upon a wide landscape, with the Court-house where he had been tried in the foreground, while the hills beyond the Susquehanna filled up the background of the picture. He eagerly approached this window, and as at that early hour the news of his removal had not been spread abroad, and no one was upon the ground below to stare at him, he stood for some minutes looking steadfastly at the broad expanse of country smiling beneath the morning sun, and glorious with the fresh glad greenness of the Spring. What passed through his mind as he enjoyed this contemplation of nature, to which he had been so long unused, cannot even be conjectured, as he turned from the window without remark.

For a time he was alone with the two watchers, but even in this privacy he kept up the ghastly farce of jocosity, walking up and down the room, kicking out his feet saying, not once but often, "Look out—this horse will kick." Presently Patrolman SHAW, of the Binghamton Police entered the room upon an errand, and BULLOFF approached him in the most friendly manner, and after shaking hands took the officer's belt and club from him. Brandishing the latter, he said with a laugh, "I've a notion to whack you over the head with it," but the laugh was one SHAW will remember, with pain, as it seemed to him like the wail of a hyena baited to its death. After the officer went out, this man of brutish callousness happened to see a copy of the Book of Martyrs lying on the table, and picking it up he turned over the leaves for a few minutes with some interest, but his consuming vanity cropped out again when he laid down the book with the remark: "You see I'm not the first of the martyrs."

After his ascent to the room where the last three hours of his life were spent, philology, as a labor real or pretended, departed from him. After that he had no more resort to lexicons, and jotted down no more of those vagaries with which he has amused the ignorant and amused the learned world. Whatever he might be doing it was plain that every moments was new intensely employed by a desperate struggle to maintain that control of himself which he had established. It was plain from his actions that his pride in his learning had been lost in his desire to die game, and thus disappoint the world which would not appreciate him, and expected to see him flinch at last from his fate. Once his attendants had seen his knees shake, and great drops of the sweat of agony start out upon his forehead, and he appeared himself to be conscious of said frightened by these symptoms of coming collapse. Because of this fear, the world was spared the infliction of his philology during his last hours. But he was to crowd these awful moments with exhibitions of what is called, in the homely, energetic words of the people he wronged, his "cussedness." He had eaten no breakfast, but had not declined a large bowl of coffee which was left with him, and from which he drank a small quantity at short intervals, thus keeping up his physical strength. A message was brought to him that Rev. J. D. PORTS, pastor of a Baptist Church at Norwich, Broome County, and Rev. A. REYNOLDS, of Oxford, another neighboring village, were down stairs, and while not desiring to thrust themselves upon him, were ready to extend to him all the consolation in their power. The churlish heathen could not declare his independence of God and man except by sending word to these meek servants of the lowly Master, "I won't see them—their start's all —— bosh." Shortly after this incident GEORGE BECKER and N. D. WHITNEY, his counsel, appeared for a parting interview, and the condemned, for the first time during this awful morning, gave some evidence of his humanity. Seeing the evident distress upon the face of Mr. BECKER, BULLOFF said: "Am sorry to see you so concerned about me. You must feel worse about it than I do." Mr. BECKER then asked him if he had anything to say to him, and was answered in the negative; then glancing at the persons in the room, the lawyer asked if he had anything he wished to whisper, but again received a negative reply. But it was then that BULLOFF first intimated any concern about his affairs, which he did by saying that he desired Mr. BECKER to take charge of his body, and, placing it in a vault, retain it a sufficient time to allow his brother to dispose of it; but in case the latter should not make any claim for it, he desired Mr. BECKER to have it decently buried, which the latter promised to do. His books, manuscripts and whatever else he had, he said, belonged to his brother, and he desired that they should be secured for him. And this also Mr. BECKER assured him should be done. Having thus arranged these affairs, he turned to his traducers and denounced the report of Drs. GRAY and VANDERBURGH as a "D——d lie," and what Dr. SAWYER has more recently said in disregarding of his philological work as a "D——d nonsense." Suddenly he became introspective, and was struck by the intuitions that he was arrested on the 19th of August—as he said; but he was not, for it was the 18th—and was to be hung on the 19th of May, and he added, "I've been here just nine months." Then he thanked Messrs. BECKER and WHITNEY for all they had done for him, and hoped they would be rewarded in this world. "As for me," he said, "my work is done, and it's one only future generations can appreciate." Then he shook hands with them, and the two gentlemen took their last leave of him.

After they were gone, came his first experience of the last dreadful ordeal. Sheriff ROOT, of Tompkins, in whose hands the prisoner has been more tractable than in those of any one else, at about 10 o'clock entered his room, and telling him it was time to dress himself to go out, tendered his assistance. BULLOFF declined it, saying that he could arrange it himself, and proceeded to prepare his toilet, with no more appearance of tremor than he would have shown if he had been preparing himself for a festival. First taking off his garments, he put on the new shirt which had been provided him, and the new black pantaloons also at hand. He arranged his neck-tie with more care and his hair with more neatness than his custom had been, and in a few moments was ready, except as to his feet. A new pair of boots had been furnished him, and they being tight, his first attempt to pull them on was a failure. He then lay down upon the bed, and held his feet high above his head. The wondering attendant asking what he was doing that for, he answered that it was to let the swelling out of his feet, and that he was often compelled to do it. Whether or not this was one of his last exhibitions of charlatanism cannot be said but he soon succeeded in getting on the boots, and was ready for the

"Last scene of all
In this strange eventful history."

Meantime the whole city was striving to fix its eyes upon that scene. Hardly before the life in the jail that was to end in death had begun to stir, hundreds were swarming around the building, where they waited as patiently as if they expected the solid walls to part and afford them a view of the dreadful spectacle. Early in the day, the fact that BULLOFF had been seen at the middle window on the second floor was generally known, and drew the bulk of the curious to the east side of the building, where the patient were rewarded with several glimpses of the condemned during the morning, for BULLOFF was searching through the crowd for old Tompkins County acquaintances, who he had been assured by Sheriff ROOT were there. The crowd was an orderly and even solemn one, and nothing unseemly occurred up to the time I entered the jail; nor afterward so far as I was informed. It is true that every high point and building was noised by men morbidly anxious to witness the hanging, but that occurs at all executions. It is not amiss to say here that no one of those persons perched on perilous heights got the least glimpse of anything going on in the jail, except one enterprising youth who erected a platform on the top of a tall chimney surmounting a building just south of the jail, and was rewarded by seeing the condemned walk through the corridor on his way to the drop.

It is not strange, then, that every person coming out of the Jail was eagerly questioned by the thousands held in order outside by the Forty-fourth Regiment, N. Y. S. M., as to the details of events within. But there was very little to tell. This being the first execution he had ever been compelled, by his duty as an officer of the law to do, Sheriff MARTIN was anxious that no precaution should be neglected which would tend to insure the proper infliction of the last penalty of the law. With this view, further experiments were made with the hoisting apparatus, a bag of sand weighing 215 pounds being attached to the drop rope. At the first trial it was found that the bag was taken to a height that would scarcely serve to take the condemned off his feet. The rope was shortened, and, another trial being made, the result was so entirely satisfactory that the bag of sand was removed and the gallows declared in perfect order. As before stated, nothing of the machine was visible except a small part of the cross-beam and the drop-line. All other parts of the apparatus were concealed behind the wall in the barn of Sheriff MARTIN, and there in the hay-loft sat a deputy-sheriff, ready to cut the rope which held the weight whenever the Sheriff should give the signal, by means of a small cord dangling against the wall close by the drop, and one end of which the deputy held in his hand.

Hardly had the gallows been finally arranged when the coffin was brought in, and, there being no other place to put it, was placed in the corridor, through which BULLOFF must pass; at the suggestion of District-Attorney HOPKINS, it was covered with army blankets, but its form unmistakably betrayed it, and the kindness was scarcely effectual. There was a long pause after this incident, during which the few spectators yet admitted were pallid by the stillness and suggestions of the gloomy place. There was scarcely a pulsation of life within the walls until about 10¾ o'clock, when those who, furnished with the tickets, had been besieging the doors were admitted, and rushed with somewhat indecorous haste into the little yard, twenty-two by thirty-two feet, but which was quickly filled, but not uncomfortably so. Among those present were reporters from nearly all the newspapers of the surrounding country, and many officials of the neighboring counties. Altogether, there were about 150 persons in the yard, and among them some whose curiosity had compelled them to violate good taste. This was especially true of the two clergymen whose services had been declined by BULLOFF, and who had been informed by Sheriff MARTIN that he should consult the prejudices of the condemned and omit all religious exercises, but who lingered to the last mere spectators of the execution.

The crowd having been arranged in the yard by Chief FLYNN, of the Binghamton Police, and all being in readiness at 11¼, Sheriff MARTIN, with his assistants, entered the room of BULLOFF and announced to him that the time had come. The prisoner declared that he was ready, and not only did not flinch from the noose and strap, but inclined his head for the one and arranged his arms for the other. The noose being placed closely about his neck, his arms were pinioned tightly to his side, but the lower arms being left free, he immediately obeyed the dictates of habit by thrusting his hands into his pantaloons' pockets. Walking slowly down the hall, in his natural manner, he stood at the door of the room. Turning to those present, he said: "Let me shake hands here, for I shall do nothing of that kind down yet." He went through the ceremony with all, and After it was over, he put his hands into his pockets again. Turning then to Sheriff ROOT, "You won't hang any clergymen behind down there, will you, Root?" and MARTIN assuring him no, was the respect with [illegible] observed, he said, in a [illegible] nature, "Lets go."

Walking between two [illegible] firm, he firmly unsupported by [illegible] with Sheriff MARTIN before, at 11:10 A. M. he [illegible] entered the yard with the [illegible] ground, as was his custom, and [illegible] rally and firmly, he walked in the [illegible] the short space and stood within [illegible] a muscle, under the rope. He was [illegible] by the surging of the spectators [illegible] her by the shouts of "down in front" [illegible] more indecent in the rear. He yielded [illegible] to be moved about by the deputy sheriff, so that he should stand in the proper spot under the rope, and did not show the least tremor when the noose having been attached to the rope, was fitted to his neck. Nor did he sink under the most trying of his ordeals to which he was next subjected. This was the reading of the death-warrant, which was done in a distinct, loud voice by Deputy Sheriff OSBORNE. The document, which had been drawn by District-Attorney HOPKINS, was necessarily long, as it must recite the action of the Court of Oyer and Terminer, of the Supreme Court in General Term on appeal of the Court of Appeals, of the Supreme Court in General Term on remittitur, when the final day was named. The reading, therefore, occupied ten minutes, and during all of this time the condemned, treated as he was for death, never faltered. Even the [illegible] of nervousness that [illegible] was no pulsation of the heart. Pronounced dead in twenty minutes, the body was left hanging thirty-seven minutes, and was then lowered into the coffin which had been brought out and placed beneath it. The straps were removed from the limbs and the cap from the face, when the spectators were startled to find that the countenance was not distorted in the slightest degree, and were the expression of a calm and peaceful death. The eyes and mouth were partly open, but there was nothing repulsive in the dead felon as he lay in his coffin except the memory of his thirty years of lawless career, of his many crimes, of his defiance in his last moments of the laws of God and the faith of man.

One more incident must be related. As the body dangled in the air, just after its elevation, a prisoner in one of the cells of the jail, who saw nothing, shouted, "He's gone to glory."

Thus died the man of vast pretense and overweening vanity, who was a thief when a boy, who had spent eighteen of his fifty-one years in prison, who was a burglar in crime, while a charlatan in learning, and great only in depravity.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA KUKLUX.

Attack Upon a Colored County Commissioner in His Own House—He is Shot Twice and His Wife and Child are Wounded—One at the Gang Shot and Severely Injured by Him—A Girl Brutally Whipped.

From the Columbia (S. C.) Union, May 16.

The Kuklux, to the number of about 100, made one of their characteristic visits to Newberry Court-house, Sunday morning, between 1 and 2 o'clock, and succeeded in shooting one county officer, wounding him in two places, and, it is thought, fatally wounding his wife, she being shot through the back, and also wounding her child, of three years of age, through both hips.

The facts, as narrated to us by Mr. SIMSON YOUNG, (colored,) the wounded man, who is Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, and whom we visited last evening, upon his arrival in this city, are as follows: YOUNG says, "I live in the town of Newberry, and on Sunday morning last, between 1 and 2 o'clock, my wife woke me up, saying there was Kuklux outside. I immediately jumped out of bed and took my rifle. They broke in the window of the bed-room and threw a turpentine ball into the room, which I smothered with a blanket. They then went to the front door of the house, burst that in, and threw several of the turpentine balls into the room, which made it light, and then burst open the bedroom door, and fired through the partition some ten or twelve shots, wounding my wife through the back, and my child through both hips, as they lay in bed. After pushing the door shut several times, I let it come open and fired upon the nearest man, wounding him severely. I then jumped through the window, and as I was running through the crowd, and about to leap the fences, I received two shots in the thigh."

This is the statement of Mr. YOUNG as made to our reporter last evening, and it is corroborated by other parties, both white and colored, who were witnesses to some parts of the subsequent proceedings. The squad that came to YOUNG'S house numbered about thirty, being nearly one-third of the party, the remainder of the band remaining in the road, except when one squad was sent to visit the house of Trial Justice LOMB, who secreted himself and escaped them. On Sunday night they also visited the residence of DAVID HALLSTOCK, another of the County Commissioners, but he had intimation of their coming and took to the woods, and thus eluded them.

The Kuklux wounded by YOUNG, at his house, turns out to be a man named WATT FAULKNER, who was formerly a member in this city. He is very seriously wounded, and it is reported amputation of one leg will be necessary. After he had been shot, his companions pressed into service a horse, carriage and driver, from the stable, and carried him about four miles from town. The matter was so atrocious, however, that the Sheriff proceeded to the locality and arrested FAULKNER on Sunday, and lodged him in jail, where he was yesterday. The impression prevails, however, that his release will be attempted by his comrades.

There was another shooting scrape also in Newberry, yesterday, growing out of the refusal by a colored man to exchange silver money for greenbacks. Upon his refusal, a young man living about four miles from town fired four shots at the colored man. None took effect.

Information was received yesterday of the killing by the Kuklux of a man near Gist's Station, on the Spartanburg and Union Railroad, on Saturday night, and also of the brutal whipping of a young girl at the same time and place.

The Cable Trickery.

From the Journal of Commerce, May 18.

The correspondence sent to us yesterday from the managers of the Atlantic Cable, and printed in some of our contemporaries, is another illustration of the artful devices by which this monopoly seeks to evade all just responsibility for its misconduct. In an individual, and covering ordinary business affairs, such trickery would be contemptible, and would speedily exclude the perpetrator from association with honorable men; we cannot see how it is any better in principle because it is done in the interests of a great corporation.

The Press has already had, and furnished to the managers, the most convincing proofs that the cable operators have violated the law and their own published rules, by sending messages out of their regular order, delaying one and forwarding others at intervals widely apart, and not as justly entitled to precedence by the date of filing.

The English manager, after sedious delays and being cornered with proofs he could not dodge, gave a verbal admission of the fact, and a very lame verbal apology for it, and then referred us to Mr. CYRUS W. FIELD, in whose hands he had placed a written report, or confession.

Mr. FIELD, in a fashion by no means creditable to him, evaded all our applications for that letter; he had it, but he was busy, he was moving, he was indisposed, he was not—exactly—in the condition to let us see it; and we failed to get it. In the meantime, Mr. FIELD sent over for Mr. WEAVER, the English manager, and author of the letter aforesaid, and was evidently dodging our application to see the document until such time as Mr. WEAVER could arrive here, be induced to withdraw it, and devise something less damaging to the cable managements.

Mr. WEAVER is here; and now Mr. FIELD has induced several very respectable gentlemen to sign a letter evading the points of our complaint; ignoring the fact that sending messages out of their proper order was long ago proved by us, and was admitted by Mr. WEAVER, the English manager, not only in a verbal conversation with us, but also in that letter we have so long tried to obtain; and calling on anybody who has anything to say on this head to be [illegible] at some time to say it.

It is a [illegible] CROPES & CO.; but the connection [illegible] is of a piece with the cable management throughout. It is tricky, insincere, and [illegible] and, in appending their signatures, the gentlemen referred to have [illegible] the [illegible] of the controversy, or their desire to shield the bad management of an odious monopoly at the risk of their private reputation for fair and honorable dealing. We do not suppose that most of these signers know personally anything of the matter, but this use of an honorable cloak for dishonorable practices is an abuse of the Ocean line, from which we have suffered too much already.

And now, Mr. FIELD and gentlemen, let us have Mr. WEAVER'S original confession and explanation without any further subterfuge, and let the cooking and dressing of artful manipulators.

ILLINOIS.

Legislative Matters—The Treaty—The German Festival—Art Progress—Science—Miscellaneous.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Friday, May 12, 1871.

The coming extra session of our State Legislature is exciting considerable interest, inasmuch as Gov. PALMER included in his proclamation nearly all the important questions which came before that body last Winter. If all the matters specified by the Governor are disposed of, there will scarcely be a necessity for the Chicago session in the Fall. The Peorians are still active on the State House removal question. Their great desire is now to get a submission to the people, with the hope of obtaining a popular expression in their favor. The Springfield advocates have damaged their cause by an injudicious course of action. They attempted a game of bluff and brow-beating, which was relished neither by members of the Assembly nor their constituents, and which has given the other party half their strength.

The results of the deliberations of the High Joint Commission give general satisfaction in this section. Our people, with the exception of the Fenians, desire that all irritating questions between the two countries shall be removed out of the way as soon as practicable. The time has gone by when demagogues can rouse a war spirit among our people as against England, and every effort in that direction may be set down as a bid for Irish votes. And the Republicans who go into this business realize but very small dividends from the investment. As a body the Irish belong to the Democracy, and any expectations of drawing off any considerable numbers from their allegiance to that party will signally fail, as they have done in the past. The Germans of this city are preparing for a grand peace demonstration on the 20th. It is expected to be one of the grandest turnouts ever witnessed in these parts, for if the Germans are not demonstrative they are nothing. The city Government has already resolved to have a holiday on the occasion.

Next week Chicago will be overrun with the "religious element" of the country. The Baptists expect an immense gathering at their anniversaries, and then comes the Presbyterian General Assembly, with representatives from nearly three hundred Presbyteries. But our city has become so large that the influx of four or five thousand strangers is much less noticeable than formerly. The hospitality of our people is large, as the Baptists alone entertained over four thousand at their anniversaries four years ago—fully as many as there were members of the churches of that denomination in the city.

THE ACADEMY OF DESIGN.

Chicago is really making progress in the arts, albeit the money-making propensities of our people do not present the most favorable condition for æsthetic culture. The Academy of Design, which has a building and gallery of its own, is doing much to improve and cultivate the public taste for the fine arts, and is educating quite a number of artists. Being in Prof. FORD'S room a day or two since, we found a large number of excellent "studies," as well as some large pictures of rare merit, the creations of Mr. FORD'S genius and skill. Some of his pupils have advanced rapidly under his direction. We noticed one—Miss SHAW, of this city, a young lady of seventeen—whose drawing and coloring showed the touch of true art genius and of much cultivation. Since she became a habitué of Mr. FORD'S studio her improvement has been rapid, and she bids fair to make a name among the artists of our country. The gallery is well supplied with many fine paintings, both by resident artists and others. It is a nucleus out of which and from which, we hope, may grow one of the best collections in the country. It is already a favorite and fashionable resort of our citizens, and, as additions are made to it, it will become increasingly so. Quite a number of artists have their studios in the building, and are working away on pictures which they hope will bring them a name and fame, and something more substantial than even these. We have some excellent portrait painters, but our citizens do not appear, as a general thing, so ambitious to be represented on canvas as they do in books and magazines, which go more before the public. The volume of Distinguished Men of Chicago, wherein appeared the biographies and portraits of a large number, who paid therefor from five hundred to one thousand dollars, is a notable example of this kind of notoriety-seeking to which our nouveau homme are given.

SCIENTIFIC GOSSIP.

Our Academy of Science, too, I think, is one of the most active bodies of the kind in the country. Their meetings are deeply interesting, and the papers read display ability and a large amount of scientific research. At the meeting on Tuesday evening, a paper was read by Dr. E. SIMPSON, embracing the results of an extensive exploration made by him in the South, particularly those relating to the zoological and meteorological researches in Florida, the fossil remains of the eocene-tertiary formations in Alabama, and coral specimens from the Tortugas. Dr. FOSTER—who, by the way, is one of the ablest scientists of the country—read a paper opposed to the "Darwinian Theory," which was an exhaustive exposition of the fallacy and absurdity of the theorizing of the author of the Descent of Man.

MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS.

Real estate is quite active. A good deal of "outside" property is changing hands, but prices are not higher than they were last year, as a general thing. Large numbers, having incumbrances, are oblized to sell, to save what they have invested, and are often compelled to make concessions. There is a large amount of building going on, while at the same time there are dwellings, stores and offices empty in all parts of the city to an extent not known here for years. We are to have another watch factory, it seems. It is to be located in the southern suburbs of the city, about ten miles from the centre of business, and somewhere in the vicinity of one of the speculators' parks. The Elgin factory has been doing a fair business; but what with one at Moline, we think the West will be pretty well supplied with timepieces. An extensive file factory is also soon to go into operation at South Lyons, a newly-laid-out town a few miles south of the city. The Directory folks are engaged in taking a new census of the city, under a contract, we believe, to find 250,000 inhabitants. They will do it, if their pay depends upon that figure, as easily as the Deputy Marshals in St. Louis found more people in the city than there were in the whole county. A case was before the Circuit Court here a few days since involving the validity of a slave marriage. Judge BOOTH ruled that such marriage was void, and that a subsequent marriage in this city was legal. The same Court—and the same Judge, however—ruled, a short time since, that simple cohabitation was a sufficient marriage to charge the man, or husband, with legal responsibility, even to the extent of bigamy, on a second marriage. These decisions would seem to conflict. Intelligence from the crops continues generally favorable, though the recent cold, sour weather has retarded the growth of Spring grains and vegetables. The potato bug is reported to have put in an appearance thus early in tantalizing numbers. Early vines are destroyed as soon as they show themselves above ground. The base-ball gambling business is enlisting some attention among the fancy. But with all the "puffing and blowing" of the newspapers, it is impossible to revive the interest of former years. Respectable people don't patronize the game to any great extent now. The money market is easy, not only among the banks and brokers, but in trade generally. Collections are much more readily made than they were two months ago. Business is fair and steady as nearly every department.

Fleetwood Park Races—Third Day.

Three races were on the programme at Fleetwood Park, yesterday, and time too much was attempted was proved before night, the closing heat being started after dark. The last train on the Harlem Road having then gone down, hundreds were obliged to return to town by the horse-cars, and it was nearly midnight before some reached their homes. Anniversary Dinner of Company C, Twenty-Second Regiment.

The members of Company C, Twenty-second Regiment assembled last evening at the Gresham Hotel to celebrate their tenth anniversary by a dinner. The company was select, and embraced, among the invited guests, Col. Porter, Lieut.-Col. Brown, Ex-Capt. Palmer, of Company C, Ex-Sergt. George Pearce, Ex-Sergt. John T. Champion, Ex-Corp. Post, and Lieut. Samuel Riggs, of Company A, besides the officers of the company, consisting of Capt. Thomas Tate, Lieut. C. D. Topping, Lieut. G. A. Taylor, Sergts. Stevens, Markham, Broadfield, Jacobs and Waydell. The entertainment was elegant in every respect, and all the gentlemen present contributed to the best of their ability to make it a grand success. The members of the company have just ground for pride in their organization and in the regiment to which they belong, and will use their utmost endeavors to advance it in the estimation of the public.

Museum of Natural History.

The Department of Public Parks announce that on Monday next, 22d inst., the Exhibition of the Museum of Natural History will be opened to the public at the Museum building in Central Park. In connection with the Museum there will be exhibited a superb collection of choice flowers and plants from the Central Park conservatories, and which it is intended to renew and freshen as often as may be found necessary. There is already in preparation a much more extensive collection of specimens of natural history, which will be exhibited as soon as the necessary cases therefor can be provided.

MR. BRENTANO, No. 33 Union-square, has received a large number of foreign publications by the last steamer. The Graphic contains some superb engravings, and the Illustrated London News continues its pictorial history of the civil war in France—hereafter to be accounted of much value. Punch, the Saturday Review and Nature are also on BRENTANO'S counters.

For $1 per line we will insert an advertisement one month in nine first-class Rhode Island newspapers, including two dailies. We refer to the publisher of this paper, to whom correspondents will know. Last cent free. Address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Advertising Agents, No. 41 Park-row, New-York.—Advertisement.

THE NEW BUILDING LAW.

Important Changes in the Act Relating to City Structures—Severe Penalties for Violations of the Law.

At the late Session of the Legislature, among the various laws passed affecting this City which have received the approval of the Executive, was one regulating building in New-York, an act which is not only amendatory of all laws existing on this subject, but reducing the same to one act. In the various accidents recorded from time to time, it has been the custom to charge the blame mainly upon defects in the law regulating building, and the object of the new law is not only to remedy this evil, but, as far as possible, to render the construction of buildings in New-York safe and the structures themselves, when once erected, substantial. The provisions of this act are very stringent, and under them the Superintendent of buildings is vested with great power, a power which, if judiciously exercised, can hardly fail to exert a beneficial influence. Owing to the importance of this subject, and it being a matter of general interest to all classes of the community, the sections affecting the public are given in detail below. For particulars in regard to the construction of buildings in which great and specific changes have been made, and which are useful more particularly to builders, reference is made to the law itself, which has been printed in pamphlet form by the Department of Buildings. The act as passed provides specifically for the material, height, thickness and depth of all walls for all classes of edifices, regulates the mortar and all other materials to be used in construction, fixes the time and method of building, refers particularly to iron structures, and contains provisions in reference to chimney flues, furnaces and registers, fire-escapes, trap-doors, hoisting apparatus, ventilators, and other matters of kindred importance. The provisions in regard to theatres, and the methods to be provided for escape therefrom in case of accident, are also specific. In reference to violations of the law, jurisdiction is given to all Courts of the City, and the power of issuing an injunction upon affidavit of the Superintendent to all Judges, while judgment obtained in any case is made a lien upon the property named in the complaint, non-transferable. The passage of the new law was obtained by JAMES M. MAGORGOR, Esq., the present Superintendent of the Department of Buildings, who, beside being a practical mechanic himself, has held the office since its formation in 1857, and who probably understands better than any other the defects of the old system and the remedies to be applied. The following are the main provisions of the law, in which the general public will be interested, for to all who own a house in New-York or contemplate the erection of one the matters therein contained are of special importance:

SECTION 8. Any and all persons who, after having been personally served with the notice of violation as hereinbefore prescribed, shall fail to comply therewith, and shall continue to violate any of the several provisions of this act, or the rules and regulations of this act, shall, in addition to the other penalty or penalties in this act provided, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon a complaint being made by the Superintendent of Buildings, before any Justice, Police Justice or any Court of criminal jurisdiction within the City of New-York, shall be arrested and held to bail by said Justice or said Court, and, upon conviction of such offense, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $250, or may be imprisoned for a term not to exceed six months; said fine or imprisonment to be imposed in the discretion of the Judge, Justice, or Court by whom said person so arrested and held to bail shall be tried; and said criminal Courts, and the Judges thereof, respectively, are hereby authorized to act and do as aforesaid.

SEC. 9. Any building or buildings, part or parts of a building, chimney, or other structure in the City of New-York, that from any cause may become or exist at any time hereafter become dangerous or unsafe, may be taken down and removed, or made safe and secure in the manner following: Immediately upon notice of any such dangerous building or building or parts or parts of a building, staging or structure, being so reported by any of the officers of said Department, the same shall be immediately entered upon a docket of such dangerous buildings, to be kept by said Superintendent, and the owner or owners of the premises shall immediately cause the same to be made safe and secure, or else the same shall be taken down and removed, as may be necessary from day to day, giving precedence to the trial of this issue over every other business; and said Judge or Justice shall have power to impanel a jury for that purpose, from any jurors in attendance upon said Court, or, in case sufficient jurors shall not be in attendance, then from any jurors that may be summoned for that purpose; and said Judge or Justice shall have power to summon jurors for that purpose; and any such suit or proceeding commenced before a Judge or Justice may be continued before another Judge or Justice of the same County; a jury trial may be waived by the default of the defendant or defendants to appear at the time and place named in the said notice, or by agreement, and in such case the issue shall be by Court, Judge, Justice, or referee whose report or decision in the matter shall be final; and upon the rendition of a verdict or decision of the Court, Judge, Justice or referee, if the said verdict or decision shall find the said building, premises, or structure to be unsafe or dangerous, the Judge or Justice trying said cause, or to whom the report of the referee trying said cause shall be made, shall issue a mandamus in a proper case of said Court, directed to the Superintendent of Buildings, reciting said verdict or decision, and commanding him forthwith to repair and secure, or take down and remove, as the case may be, in accordance with said verdict or decision, said unsafe or dangerous building, buildings, part or parts thereof, staging, structure, or other premises that shall have been named in the said notice; and said Superintendent shall immediately thereupon proceed to execute said precept as therein directed, and may employ such labor and assistance and furnish such materials as may be necessary for that purpose, and after having so done, said Superintendent shall make a return of said precept, with an endorsement of his action thereunder, and the cost and expenses thereby incurred, to the Judge or Justice then holding the chambers of the said Court; and thereupon said Judge or Justice shall tax and adjust the amount indorsed upon said precept, and shall adjust and allow disbursements and costs of said proceedings to said attorney at and after the rate provided in the case of proceedings in that class of actions where judgments on failure to answer can only be taken on application to the Court, together with preliminary expenses of search and survey, which shall be inserted in the judgment in said action or proceeding, and shall render judgment for such amount and for the sale of the said premises in the said notice named, together with all the right, title and interest that the person or persons, or any of them, named in the said notice, had in the lot, ground or land upon which the said building or structure was placed, at the time of the filing of a notice of lis pendens in the said action, or at the time of the entry of judgment therein, to satisfy the same; which sale shall be in the same manner and with like effect as sales under judgment in foreclosures of mortgages; and said Superintendent shall not sell sufficient to satisfy the amount ordered to be paid by such judgment, the deficiency may be collected by execution on said judgment against the owners or any one of the owners of the premises, in the same and about all preliminary proceedings, as well as the carrying into effect any order of the Court, or any present issued by any Court, and disposition of the money made requisition upon the Controller of the City and County of New-York for such amount or amounts of money as shall be necessary to meet the expenses thereof; and upon the same being approved by any Judge or Justice of the Court from which the order or precept was issued, and presented to said Controller, he shall pay the same; and for that purpose shall borrow and raise upon a revenue bond to be issued in the name of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the said City, the several amounts that from time to time may be required, which shall be reimbursed by the payment of the amount and interest at seven per cent, of the judgment or judgments obtained as aforesaid, if the same shall be collected. In case said issue shall not be tried at the time specified in said notice, or to which the trial may be adjourned, the same may be brought to trial any time thereafter by said Superintendent, without a new survey, upon not less than three days' notice of trial to the person or persons upon whom the original notice was served, or to his or their attorney, which notice of trial may be served in the same manner as said original notice.

SEC. 10. Provided, nevertheless, that immediately upon the issuing of said precept, the owner or owners of said building or premises, or any party interested therein, upon application to said Superintendent of Buildings, shall be allowed to perform the requirements of said precept at his or their own proper costs and expense, provided the same shall be done immediately, and in accordance with the requirements of said precept, upon the payment of all costs and expenses incurred up to that time.

SEC. 11. In case any of the notices directed to be issued by this act are not complied with within ten days after the service thereof, the Superintendent of Buildings may, in his discretion, apply to the Supreme Court in the City and County of New-York, at a special term thereof at Chambers, for an order directing him to proceed to make the alterations, or remove the violation or violations, as the same may be specified in said notice, and the costs shall be allowed as costs to the attorney of the said Department, under and by virtue of the said application and proceedings, which said amount, with all costs, expenses and disbursements incurred in the carrying out of said order, shall become a lien upon said building or premises named in the said notice, from the time of the filing of a copy of the said notice, with a notice of the proceedings taken thereunder, in the office of the Clerk of the City and County of New-York, and the said Supreme Court, or a Judge or Justice thereof, to whom application shall be made, is hereby authorized and directed to grant such order, and take such proceedings as shall be necessary to make the same effectual; and any said Judge or Justice to whom application shall be made is hereby authorized and directed to enforce such lien in accordance with the Mechanics' Lien law of the City of New-York; and in case either of the notices hereinbefore mentioned shall be served upon any lessee or party in possession of any building or premises thereon described, it shall be the duty of the person upon whom such service is made to give immediate notice to the owner or agent of said building named in the notice; and the same shall be known to the end persons presumably if such persons shall be within the limits of the City of New-York, and his residence known to such person, and if not within said City, then by depositing the same in a sealed envelope in the Post-office, properly inclosed, and addressed to such owner or agent at his then place of residence, if known, and by paying the postage thereon; and in case any such party in possession shall neglect or refuse to give such notice as herein provided, he shall be personally liable to the owner or owners of said building or premises for all damages he or they shall sustain by reason thereof.

MEDICAL MALPRACTICE.

Lockup Evans Convicted and Sentenced.

Yesterday morning the jury in the "Dr." Lockup Evans case, after being out all night, entered the Court of General Sessions and returned a verdict of "an assault with intent to commit manslaughter in the second degree." This was received with audible demonstrations of approval by the audience, which were promptly repressed. The appearance of the prisoner was pitiable in the extreme. He was much agitated, turned nervously in his seat, and vainly endeavored to control his evident agony.

District-Attorney SULLIVAN moved for sentence, with the remark that he had hoped the opprobrium he needed by others, who were still practicing the same abominable calling, and who had frequently boasted that their money and influence could shield them from the power of the law. He hoped that the extreme penalty would be administered.

The accused, when asked why judgment should not be pronounced against him, stared vacantly, twitched nervously, turned to his counsel, and then replied in the negative.

Judge BEDFORD said that he was surprised that twelve intelligent men could have remained out all night before deciding to agree upon a verdict in such a case as the evidence presented to them. They had found full proof of his guilt, but he was desirous that the verdict should be rendered in legal phraseology. He wished all persons engaged in the same business to distinctly understand that they would receive the merited punishment when justly convicted, and that no mercy should be extended to them. In this case he would send the prisoner to the State Prison, at hard labor, for three years and six months.

There was another rustling of applause in the audience as the miserable convict was led out of Court.

Contested Wills—Hearings in the Tilford and McBride Cases.

In the matter of the contested will of GEO. TILFORD, Drs. MINER, MCMURRAY and ELLIS, who held a consultation in reference to the case of Mr. TILFORD a month previous to his death and three days after the execution of the will, were examined yesterday before the Surrogate. They testified that at the time they visited deceased he was unfit to transact business, memory being impaired and health shattered. The case was adjourned until to-morrow at 10 A. M.

A brief hearing also took place yesterday before the Surrogate in the contested will case of MATTHEW MCBRIDE, deceased. No witnesses were examined, and after presenting some documentary evidence, the contestants rested their case. Then it was adjourned until Friday, the 26th inst.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

Business at the Exchange yesterday (May 18) was again good and the attendance large while the greater portion of the property offered was disposed of at fair figures. The following is a review of the transactions:

MULLER, WILKINS & CO., at public auction, sold a number of unimproved building lots, located on the north-west and north-east corners of Tenth-avenue and One Hundred and Second-street, and on the north side of One Hundred and Second-street, in the rear of the lots last named. The realty belonged to the estate of ROBERT WRIGHT, deceased, and the prices realized were as follows: For the north-west corner lots, five in all, fronting on avenue, from $3,225 to $5,500 each. For the north-east corner, four in number, also fronting on avenue, from $2,700 to $5,050 each, and for eight street lots in rear of above, from $2,600 to $2,800 apiece. For more specific details as to names of purchasers, reference is made to the re-capitulation. We note the lots fronting on One Hundred and Second-street, east of Tenth-avenue, and a plot of ground containing about four lots west of the avenue lots sold, belonging to the same estate, were withdrawn. Messrs. MULLER & CO., in addition, disposed of a four-story English-basement brown-stone-front house and lot known as No. 316 West Thirty-third-street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, for $18,750, and also the business premises No. 26 Cedar-street, between Pearl and William, embracing a four-story brick store and lot; 25.10 by 90.5, for $16,000. Wm. Irving purchased the former property and CORNELIUS O'BRIEN the latter. Five three-story brick houses and lots situate on the north side of Dean-street, Brooklyn, between Smith and Boerum streets, were also offered by the same firm, at an upset price of $5,400 each, but no advance bid being received they were withdrawn. Brooklyn real estate, when offered, particularly at the Exchange, does not seem to command that attention which it should, but why this state of affairs exists is a difficult matter to explain. The fact, nevertheless, is conceded, and a turn in the tide is waited for with anxiety by owners of property in that city.

Wm. KENNELLY, at public auction, disposed of a lot on the north-west corner of Fifth-avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-sixth-street, for $6,700; also, five lots on the west side of Fifth-avenue in the same block, at prices ranging from $3,050 to $3,750 each. Details in recapitulation. The same auctioneer also offered for sale twenty-three lots located respectively on Ninth-avenue, opposite the Convent of the Sacred Heart, and on Lawrence (One Hundred and Twenty-sixth-street) and One Hundred and Twenty-seventh-streets. Of these, however, only seven lots were sold, as reported below, the rest being withdrawn. The property is owned by the institution named, and the sale yesterday was by order of the trustees thereof.

A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO., by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of NATHANIEL JARVIS, JR., Esq., referee, disposed of a two-story brick house and lot, the latter 20 by 68, on the north side of Beach-street, between Varick-street and St. John-alley, known as No. 17; sold to be C. B. LE BARRON for $14,100. The premises No. 74 Forsyth-street, embracing a lot 25 by 100, upon which is erected a two-story brick-front house in front, and a four-story tenement-house in rear, was also offered by Messrs. BLEECKER & CO., at an executor's sale, but not sold, although knocked down to W. B. JACKSON, for $20,000.

The only other business transacted at the Exchange was an adjournment, announced by E. H. LUDLOW & CO., of a legal sale, at which sixteen lots on Fifth-avenue, south-west corner of One Hundred and Fifteenth-street, were advertised to be sold. Auction adjourned until Thursday, June 1. The general drift of the day's transactions at the Exchange, yesterday, was encouraging, indicating as they did an increased and increasing interest in real estate matters.

In suburban sales the event of yesterday was the Bradford estate auction, conducted by S. DINGEE & CO. The attendance at the sale was large, a number of persons from the City availing themselves of the facilities furnished by the auctioneers, in the way of special trains, to be present on the ground. As to the results achieved, a detailed report will appear to-morrow. In our review of the Rutherford Park sale, A. D. MELLICK, JR., & BROTHER, auctioneers, published yesterday, the names of purchasers were omitted in the summary, owing to the want of space, but among the principal buyers at the auction of Tuesday may be named the following: H. B. Claflin, F. W. Woodward, B. T. Bringsold, S. M. Pike, G. L. Newell, Rev. A. McLean, W. H. Townsend, S. W. Hollister, Geo. W. Morgan, M. Brennan, H. G. Bell, A. Randell, Thomas Green, A. L. Tuska, J. T. Cammeyer, E. Maynard, and the Stephens Brothers.

As private sale recent transactions are reported as following: Two full lots on the south-west corner of Eighth-avenue and Seventy-sixth-street sold for $45,000; sale effected by JOHN KAVANAGH, real estate broker, Sixth-avenue, corner of Forty-second-street. One lot, 25 by 81, west side Grand Circle, on the Broadway extension to Central Park, 92 feet north of Fifty-ninth-street; sold by V. E. Gravenson & Son, No. 11 Pine-street, for $22,500. Just at present there is a lull in the demand for Fifth-avenue and east-side property, but the activity in Eighth-avenue and west-side lots is increasing. In our mention yesterday of the reported sale of the four blocks bounded by Third and Fifth avenues, One Hundred and Sixth and One Hundred and Seventh streets, owned by Mr. LORD, for $225,000, we stated that this property had been offered for $115,000. We intended to have said that it was so offered as late as October last, in order to show that the present rise is therefore the more remarkable. In addition to the sales above noted, Wm. H. RAYNOR, No. 5½ Pine-street, reports having sold four lots on the north-east corner of Fifth-avenue and Ninety-second-street, and four in the rear, fronting on street, for $150,000. Also, eight lots on Eighth-avenue, between Ninety-second and Ninety-third streets, and six lots in the rear, three each fronting on each street respectively, for $170,000.

NEW-YORK STATE RAILROAD BONDS.

FIRST MORTGAGE GOLD BONDS OF THE RONDOUT AND OSWEGO RAILROAD.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD.

SEVEN PER CENT. SEMI-ANNUALLY.

This Road covers 100 miles of the most direct possible line between the Great Lakes and deep-water navigation on the Hudson River, the whole line of which will be completed and in operation on or before Oct. 1, 1872, and give a new line of road to Lake Ontario and the West, twenty-five miles shorter than any line that can be found.

It passes through the cement, flag-stone and lumber region of Ulster County and the rich agricultural bottoms of Delaware and Greene Counties, all of which have not heretofore been reached by railroad facilities, and from which sections the formation of the country prevents the construction of a competing line.

The Thirty-six miles of road operated for three months is already paying net earnings equivalent to seven per cent., gold, on its cost of construction and equipments.

The issue of Bonds is limited to $20,000 per mile of COMPLETED ROAD, the coupons payable in gold in this City. Price of the Bonds, 90 in currency.

FISK DEFEATED.

The Erie and Susquehanna Litigation at Length Decided.

The Fisk Board of Directors Declared Not Elected.

Costs of the Action to be Defrayed by Them—Further Prosecution of the Suits to be Discontinued—The Ramsey Directors to Take Immediate Possession.

It will be remembered that a very fierce contest for the control of the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad Company, was inaugurated some eighteen months ago between Mr. FISK and Mr. RAMSEY; that each party claimed to have elected their Board of Directors, and that various suits were thereupon commenced. The above suit was, perhaps, the leading one. It was tried in the Special Term, and judgment given against the Fisk party. An appeal was taken, and the General Term have given the following decision, Judge MULLEN giving the opinion:

The People vs. The Albany and Susquehanna Railroad Company and others.—MULLEN, J.—This action was brought to obtain the following judgments: 1. To declare and adjudge that the pretended persons of Ithiel Blake were duly elected, by the stockholders of the said Railroad Company, if either was so elected, to be directors in such manner as to entitle them to the possession of said Railroad Company, and to transact the business of said Company, in the usual manner according to law, and the provisions of its charter, and the laws of the State, with the aid of the power of the State, if necessary, and it was his duty to interpose and aid in the execution of the laws, and to protect the Courts of law or equity, and to afford them the means to suppress riots and disturbances, if they should occur. It would be a need[illegible] of the Attorney-General, or any other citizen of the Government, to prevent the violation of the Government, or, whenever any controversy between parties, or between the Government and the parties, or between the Government and a free Government, the people must be left at liberty to carry on every kind of quarrels, free from the interference of the Government, so long as the public peace is not invaded, and the laws are not violated. The Attorney-General, with the aid of the public, is bound to see that the laws are not violated, and that the public peace is not invaded, and to see that the laws are executed, and to see that the people are not deprived of their property, except by the process of law. The Attorney-General is a public officer, and it is his duty to see that the laws are executed, and
